Mystery Surrounds Man's Death

SUSPECT GAS OR POISONED RUM CAUSE

Coroner Will Hold Inquest In Effort to Determine What Killed Grove Man

TWO CRITICALLY ILL Trio Found in Garage with Auto Engine Still Running; Officers Informed

CARBON MONOXIDE gas fumes from the exhaust pipe of an automobile, or poisoned liquor, was responsible for the death of one man in Garden Grove, last night, while two others, companions of the dead man, today are battling for their lives in the Grove city, according to sheriff's officers.

The dead man is Wallie G. Eike, 46, former restaurant owner, who resided at the corner of Western avenue and Bonnie drive, Garden Grove. Those reported seriously ill are Charlie Pendleton, 30, Etiwanda mine worker, and Phil Robinson, 30, Garden Grove laborer.

Perform Autopsy

An autopsy was performed on the body of Eike today at the Winbinger Mission Funeral home. In an effort to determine the cause of death, but the findings were not made public it was said.

According to Deputy Sheriff Roscoe Knight, the three men were found in the Eike garage at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in a critical condition. Officers reported that they learned that four men in the Eike machine, Thursday, went to Etiwanda, where they purchased a bottle of liquor. The engine was left running, it was said, and was running when the men were found by members of the Eike family.

The fourth man's name has not been learned. He apparently left the party when the car was driven into the Eike garage, officers said. They were seeking him today in an effort to learn some of the details of the trip.

The three men were removed to their homes and Eike died shortly before midnight last night.

Hold Inquest Monday

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced today that he would hold an inquest over the body of Eike at the Winbinger establishment at 11 o'clock Monday morning. At that time the report of the autopsy surgeon will be made.

Funeral services for Eike will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Burial will be made in the Santa Ana cemetery. Eike is survived by his widow, Mrs. Julia Eike, and one son, Wallie Eike, Jr. Three stepchildren also survive.

KING FERDINAND'S CONDITION BETTER

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 2.—King Ferdinand's condition was "markedly improved" today, according to an official bulletin.

The king's condition was reported critical yesterday as a result of an attack of grippe, which complicated an illness of several months.

Despite the favorable official bulletin, anxiety over the king continued. In some quarters it was declared his condition was hopeless.

Troops filled the streets of the city today, as the government guarded against a possible revolt if the king dies.

Damages Against Wrigley Upheld

CHICAGO, April 2.—The federal circuit court of appeals today upheld a court decision which awarded the L. P. Larson company damages of $1,384,000 against the William Wrigley Chewing Gum Manufacturing company.

The Larson company alleged in its suit that the trademark "Spearmint Chewing Gum" originally was its property and the Wrigley company infringed on a patent when it adopted the name.

The higher court, in upholding the decision, excepted a few minor points in the lower court's opinion and it is expected that when the amounts listed from these items is subtracted from the $1,384,000 that the total damages will be approximately $1,000,000.

The case has been pending for several years.

Prohibition Chief Loses His Power

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A check-rein was placed today on Roy A. Haynes, new acting commissioner of prohibition, to prevent him having full control of the dry forces.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills signed an order delegating to Haynes full authority to decide in all prohibition matters—but first he must obtain the approval of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. C. Andrews.

Haynes, by this order, is directly under Andrews' supervision. All major policies, appointments and administrative matters, will be decided by the assistant secretary. Then the commissioner will be allowed to put the orders into effect.

LEGISLATURE IS PREPARED FOR 'FLYING FINISH'

Administration Wins Brief Skirmish Over Budget In Assembly

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—With less than three weeks remaining of the present session, the California state legislature today prepared to go into the home stretch Monday for a flying finish to its 47th session.

First consideration of Governor Young's $134,000,000 biennial budget will be given by the upper house Monday and it will be adopted with little or no discussion. The administration won, hands down, in the brief skirmish which marked the budget bill's passage by the assembly.

The two measures by Arthur H. Breed, of Alameda, increasing the gasoline tax to three cents a gallon, providing money to build roads and allocating the road funds to "primary" and "secondary" state highways are then slated for immediate consideration by the senate.

These two bills have been patiently resting on the third reading file since the session began, awaiting passage of the major appropriation measure, the budget.

Reapportionment Remains

Reapportionment, hydraulic mining, the "still" bill, abolition of intercity divorce, compulsory automobile insurance and the remainder of the criminal law revision measures then will be all of the major issues that remain for settlement.

Night sessions will be the order for the lower house next week, as the result of a rapidly filling file of bills. Warning was given by Lt. Gov. Burton R. Fitts this week that authors of senate bills who had any regard for them, should make every effort to get them out of committee next week.

The rest of the time of the session would be devoted to assembly bills in senate committees, he said. After the major administration bill then will be only a question of how many bills the legislature can handle before April 22.

"The senate is now 20 bills ahead of its record in the 1925 session at the same period," said Fitts. "And this despite the large number of measures resulting from the criminal law revision program."

Senator J. W. McKimley, of Los Angeles, has served notice of his intention to move reconsideration of the "sponsor bill" by Senator Roy Feltom, of San Francisco, which would do away with the

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—Litigation between the Feature Productions and heirs of the late Rudolph Valentino was halted again here today with the case continued for two weeks.

An insurance policy for $250,000 held by the film company, forms the basis for the legal action by the late actor's heirs, who claim a share of the policy.

A settlement probably will be made with the film company receiving an amount equal to the sum expended on a picture which was unfinished at the time of Valentino's death, it was reported.

Rupture Looms in Film Organization

HOLLYWOOD, April 2.—A break in the First National film organization loomed here today with a report that John McCormick, production chief, will shortly affiliate himself with another studio.

The reported break may also affect Colleen Moore, the producer's wife, who is said to be dissatisfied with the present arrangement whereby her films are sold one year in advance.

HERE'S HOW AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT, IN WHICH HENRY FORD WAS HURT, OCCURRED

This exclusive NEA service telephoto to The Register illustrates the manner in which the alleged attack upon Henry Ford's life was made. At the left is Ford's car, after it had landed in the ditch and crashed into a tree after a complete revolution, in which the billionaire auto manufacturer was spilled out and hurt. On the highway is a car showing how Ford's machine was crowded off the road.

DETECTIVES FIND NOTHING TO INDICATE FORD MURDER PLOT

Billionaire Manufacturer's Condition Continues Favorable

(By United Press)

DETROIT, April 2.—Ford Motor company investigators found nothing to indicate malicious intent in connection with the automobile accident in which Henry Ford suffered painful injuries last Sunday night, they reported today to Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Toms, of Wayne county.

"We shall accept their report as final, unless future investigation discloses evidence that would warrant action," Toms told the United Press after Harry H. Bennett, chief of Ford investigators, had made the report as requested by the prosecutor's office.

"We consider the Ford investigators experienced, trained men and cannot now anticipate that anything will be disclosed to substantiate any theory except that of an accident," the prosecutor said.

Ford's recovery continues normal and there has been no material change in his condition, a spokesman for Dr. R. D. McClure, surgeon-in-chief for the injured manufacturer, informed the United Press this morning.

Dr. McClure last night issued a statement announcing there would be no more medical bulletins issued about Ford's condition and that he was making a "perfectly normal recovery."

Ford remained bedfast in his palatial Dearborn home, surrounded by numerous guards, who prevented any persons or automobiles approaching the house, excepting immediate members of the family and high Ford officials.

It is understood that Ford has agreed to demands of his wife and of Ford officials that in the future he be accompanied by a bodyguard whenever he starts one of his long jaunts.

4 ARE NEAR DEATH AFTER STOVE BLAST

VAN NUYS, April 2.—Two children and two adults were near death today as the result of a gasoline stove explosion at the home of Mrs. D. Raville, at Mission Acres, north of here.

The babies, Clarence Raville, three, and his sister, Alma, one, are suffering from severe burns about the head and shoulders, and their mother, Mrs. Dimple Raville, 21, is in critical condition.

Mrs. Mattie Weaver, 44, the children's grandmother, may die as the result of burns received when she risked her own life to save the three others.

During preparation of the noon-day meal, the stove became red hot, and, sensing the danger, Mrs. Weaver attempted to carry it out the back door. Her effort was vain, as the stove exploded with a detonation that could be heard for blocks.

All four in the dwelling were in the path of the gasoline and flames, receiving terrible burns before they were rescued and the blaze extinguished.

Woman Killed and Husband Wounded

OAKLAND, April 2.—Mrs. Marie Frates was murdered and her husband, Manuel, so seriously wounded today by Mexican bandits that he is expected to die early today by two unidentified men. Neighbors found Frates lying in the street outside his home, with his throat slashed. Before becoming unconscious, he told police that two men had broken into the house and attacked the couple, Mrs. Frates' body was horribly mutilated. A bloody axe and knife were found in the house, the sole clues to the murderers.

Attorneys Move to Quash Summons in Chaplin Case

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—An attempt to gain a further delay in bringing the Chaplin divorce case to trial was in evidence here today with a motion on record to quash the summons served on Charlie Chaplin by publication.

The motion is based on the contention that Lita Grey Chaplin's divorce complaint failed to specify a sufficient cause of action and that the complaint has been amended by interlineation, thus voiding the first summons.

No Break as Yet in Mining Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 2.—No break was apparent today in the general shutdown that has gripped the unionized bituminous coal mines of the central competitive district for the last 35 hours. The miners have indicated—through a speech by John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers—that they will not agree to the demands of the operators for lower wages, even though the lower wages shall be only for a term while conciliatory conferences are going on.

Bombardment Is Protested By Cantonese

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI, April 2.—The Cantonese government "strongly protests" bombardment of Nanking by British and American gunboats," said a statement issued at that city today by Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Nationalist government, and relayed to Shanghai by Admiral Hough, commanding the U. S. Yangtze patrol.

The Chinese suffered 100 casualties for every foreigner killed or wounded in the Nanking riots, Chen said. He denounced the attack on the foreign consulates and expressed regret over foreign casualties.

Fear for safety of foreigners increased as a result of reports that an order ousting the moderate Chiang Kai Shek as generalissimo of the southern armies had been drafted at Hankow. The order, it was understood, would not take effect for several days. The extremist wing of the party, which would be left in complete control if Chiang were forced out, is more strongly anti-foreign than the Centrist faction.

ONLY THREE CHINESE KILLED, SAYS DAVIS

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Only three Chinese civilians were killed in the Nanking bombardment March 24, according to state department reports today from Consul General John K. Davis, answering National Foreign Minister Chen's claims that many Chinese were killed. Davis said seven foreigners were killed and 13 American houses burned, adding that Nationalist soldiers deliberately fired upon with intent to kill the British, Japanese and American consuls, knowing them to be such. He laid the Nanking outrages directly to Cantonese Nationalist troops and said the Nationalist leaders did not attempt to restrain them until after British and American vessels had laid down a barrage.

KELLOGG CONFERS WITH BRITISH AMBASSADOR

WASHINGTON, April 2.—With the U. S. gunboat Asheville ordered today from Shanghai to Tientsin to cope with the situation at that point, diplomatic moves were under way here to deal with the recent Nanking incident, in which Americans and British were mistreated.

It developed today Secretary of State Kellogg and the British ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, had conferred over the Chinese situation and considered the course to be taken toward the Nanking affair.

The conference, however, developed no fixed course as to procedure. Officials said they had not yet received a British note embracing demands against the Cantonese regime, reported from London to have been forwarded here. Nor would these officials say definitely whether joint action with Japan and Great Britain is now favored by this government. In any event, they were not yet ready to announce publicly the course to be taken.

Secretary of State Kellogg called today to give President Coolidge the latest China advice and to discuss Nanking and other angles. Both men are giving the subject of indemnification for the Nanking affair serious consideration, while in China, Minister McMurtry and Adm. C. S. Williams also are studying it closely. Kellogg made it clear in his latest statement that this government intends fully to protect American lives and property in China, reserving the right to increase forces if necessary. The statement was inspired by Shanghai criticisms suggesting the U. S. government was not pursuing a firm enough policy in China.

BUS PASSENGER DIES

TRINIDAD, Colo., April 2.—J. D. Bluff, 59, of Los Angeles, a passenger on a Los Angeles-Denver bus, died of a heart attack soon after reaching here today.

REPORT FINDING TO STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Finding, yesterday, of the body of Edgar Morris Wilkins, American citizen, kidnapped near Guadalajara, Mexico, March 27, was reported by American Consul Dudley G. Dwyer, at Guadalajara, to the state department today.

The consul reported Wilkins had probably been dead for four days. It is reported, Dwyer said, that Wilkins was killed by bandits in an encounter with soldiers. Ambassador Sheffield has been instructed by the department to make urgent representations.

ANGELUS TEMPLE PASTOR RETURNS

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—Almer Temple McPherson, woman evangelist, took up her duties as the pastor of Angelus temple again today, having made a dramatic and unexpected reappearance before her congregation last night.

The Four Square Gospel leader was scheduled to have arrived here this afternoon from a transcontinental soul-saving tour and elaborate plans for a home coming welcome were discarded as a result of her sudden appearance.

The evangelist explained that the unexpected arrival was prompted by homesickness.

Piles of flowers withered behind Angelus temple today and some mystery surrounds the disruption of the celebration which was to have been held today.

6 Miners Die In Coal Dust Blast

WASHINGTON, Penn., April 2.—Six miners were instantly killed today in an explosion of coal dust and gas which had accumulated in the workings of the Cokesburg mine of the Bethlehem Mine corporation, at Cokesburg, near here. The interior of the mine was wrecked. Five men were injured.

150 CHINESE ARE SLAIN IN RIOT, REPORT

Anti-American Demonstrations Are Increasing in Chungking Area in Interior

READY TO EVACUATE

British Consulate in Nanking Used as Barracks by Southern Army Soldiers

(By United Press)

PEKING, April 2.—American and British residents of Peking were alarmed today, although the city was entirely peaceful. Large numbers were preparing to evacuate as soon as possible.

The interior was reported to be growing more dangerous. Americans along the Tibetan border were urged to evacuate and American and British merchants at Kalgan, northwest of Peking, were preparing to leave.

Anti-American demonstrations at Chungking were reported to be increasing. At Nanking police were guarding the American consulate, but the British consulate was being used as barracks for Nationalist troops.

The American legation here denied it urged American institutions in Peking to evacuate their personnel, but it was understood the Rockefeller institute and other organizations were granting immediate vacations and home leave wherever possible.

150 CHINESE REPORTED KILLED IN RIOTING

SHANGHAI, April 2.—An unconfirmed report received here today said 150 Chinese had been injured and some of them killed at Chungking during riot between opposing factions of the Nationalist army.

An anti-foreign demonstration was in progress at Chungking, the rumor said, and 300 Nationalists who did not approve of the anti-foreign sentiments broke up the demonstration.

ORDER FOR MARINES INDICATES MORE TROUBLE

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Ordering of 1500 more marines to concentrate at San Diego, Calif., in readiness for Chinese service, is taken here today as indicating the administration's fear of further trouble and an expectation that the disturbed condition in China will last a long time.

The order for the new marine expeditionary force, the third, came a few hours after Adm. C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, had reported possibility of serious trouble soon in the upper Yangtze valley, whence nearly all Americans now have been evacuated.

Williams, it was learned today, asked for the concentration of other marines at San Diego, when he requested 1500 more marines for Shanghai several days ago. The 1500 bound for Shanghai are now proceeding across country and will sail on the transport Henderson early next week. The voyage will take 22 days.

REINFORCEMENTS ARE ORDERED BY BRITISH

LONDON, April 2.—The British government has decided to send further reinforcements to Shanghai, it was announced today.

ATTORNEYS MOVE TO QUASH SUMMONS IN CHAPLIN CASE

(By United Press)

Counsel for Mrs. Chaplin declared that the only objection to the original divorce complaint was of a technical nature, involving the failure of the document to state that Lita Grey Chaplin were man and wife.

This has been amended on the face of the complaint and William K. Young, one of Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys, said he was of the opinion that the original summons would be sufficient to bring Chaplin into the jurisdiction of the California courts.

WIFE MAY SAVE HUSBAND FROM BIGAMY CHARGE

The eternal feminine may save Dan Adlin, confessed bigamist, from state's prison.
Adlin's first and legal wife first wanted to send him to San Quentin for running away with the other woman. Now that he is in custody and facing the prison gates, she is ready to move the earth and all above it to keep him out.
Adlin, a Los Angeles tailor, who left his wife and two children, to elope with Sylvia Weisberg, his pretty helper in the tailor shop, pleaded guilty to bigamy when arraigned yesterday before Superior Judge Homer G. Ames. He asked for probation and his hearing was set for next Friday at 9:30 a. m.
Adlin's look yesterday was one of worry over the fate confronting him. Sitting near him, in the courtroom, was his wife, Rose Adlin, looking just as worried.
A few days ago she had sworn to the bigamy complaint and vowed the other woman should never have her husband; that he must go to prison. Yesterday, she accompanied him into court. They whispered to each other anxiously and were apparently reunited in a common cause—to stop what she had started.
With the other woman eliminated, vowing that she didn't know Adlin was a married man when she accompanied him to Santa Ana and married him under the name of Edward Daniels, Mrs. Adlin perhaps had hoped, said the officials, that she could win her husband back to her. In fact, he had said when arrested in San Francisco that he was about to leave his new bride and return to his true wife and their two little children.
Or perhaps, officials suggested, Mrs. Adlin didn't want her husband for herself, but wanted a father and support for her two children. At any rate she appeared to have exercised the prerogative of her sex and is expected to aid in the fight to gain probation for Adlin.

'CHECK MAN' IS GIVEN TERM IN STATE PRISON

Henry Morse was a college man, an electrical expert, a talented musician—a bridegroom of three months. Though here only a few years from his native Denmark, he had mastered the English tongue so well that his grammar and diction were flawless. So were his manner and his dress, giving him the sure mark of dignity and quiet distinction. As he stood before the group who watched him, yesterday, Morse was an altogether pleasing figure.
But his record was not so pleasing, nor his situation. Morse was standing before a judge in superior court, and had admitted his guilt of passing fictitious checks, his third such offense. And the sentence he received from Judge Homer G. Ames—not more than 14 years at San Quentin—is only one of three hanging over him. He must later answer to the authorities of El Paso, Texas, where he was serving a term when brought to Santa Ana, and of Butte, Montana, where he had been granted parole after paying part of the penalty for his first offense.
Sympathy Aroused
As the young man told his story in a futile plea for probation, his hearers were shocked that such a promising life should be wrecked by an apparently single weakness. Murmurs of pity were heard. The prosecutor, Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodgett, himself, vainly faced his duty with regret.
Morse stated his case simply, with no hint of appeal or excuse. He was born in Copenhagen and his home life had not been happy. He said, Parental discord was only kept from an open break by the link formed by the child himself. But the child was given a good education and could have had a better one in the career picked for him, but he had his own career selected, and after a year in the University of Copenhagen, he fared forth to America, the land of promise.
At first his path was difficult because of his ignorance of the language, but in two years, he said, he had overcome that obstacle and could get good jobs. He worked for the big electrical corporations of the east. Then adventure called him west—to ruin.
His funds gave out at Butte and he took the easy way—checks. The law overtook him but was lenient, as his previous record was good. He was sentenced to serve from 18 months to three years. At the end of nine months he was released on parole.
He came on to California where he met romance. Three months ago he married a Los Angeles girl. He had no job but there was one in prospect and the rosy glow of happiness banished fear for the future. But the job didn't develop and he decided it would be best to return east to one of the big companies he had worked for. His Butte record frightened California employers.
Out of Funds, Writes Checks
There was need of funds to make the journey and he shrank from betraying his situation to his bride.
"I didn't know then what I know now—that she would have stuck to me and will stick to me whatever happens, or I would not have needed to violate the law again," he told Judge Ames.
But he wasn't sure of her then, so he came to Santa Ana and passed six worthless checks, which netted him $52. There may have been other checks. He didn't say.

PRIZE WINNING COSTUMES IN ANNUAL RUBE DAY OBSERVANCE AT HIGH SCHOOL

SUBJECTS FOR TOASTMASTER SPEECHES TOLD

The Colorado river-Boulder dam project, capital punishment, the Chinese situation, city planning, industrial development, tourist travel, week-end business and many other subjects add variety to the April calendar of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Toastmasters' club, new section, according to a program announcement released by D. L. Kessling, secretary of the organization.
"Toasts to our native states" will be a feature of the meeting scheduled for April 4. Each speaker will give a five-minute speech in honor of the state or country from which he originated. Addresses on particular subjects will be given by L. L. Vroman, W. H. Penn, L. L. Trickey, Walter Dunlap, C. W. Courtney, Arnold Peck, Rolla Rays and Harold Miller.
To Talk on Planning
"City Planning and Functions of City Planning Commissions" will be discussed by J. B. Head at the meeting scheduled for April 11. T. J. Corn will touch upon recent industrial development in the city and prospects of further growth.
The economic advantage, as well as advertising value of tourist business and week-end travel, will be told in an address by A. J. Rutter, "Santa Ana in 1940—the Leading Residence City of the Southland," will be pictured by Guy Christian. The speaker will base his predictions on the present southward trend of the Los Angeles population and future plans of the railroads and other transportation lines to furnish rapid interurban transportation between Los Angeles and Santa Ana.
Capital Punishment
Capital punishment—a subject that has enjoyed a perennial longevity with the coming and going of legislatures, pops up again as the principal subject of discussion at the meeting set for April 18. F. C. Robinson will deliver a veritable barrage of arguments to show why the death penalty should be abolished. He will be opposed by Dick Matthews. The need of city parks for recreational purposes will be explained by E. A. Baird. In this connection, the speaker will point to facts and figures to show that adequate parks and playgrounds constitute a safeguard against juvenile delinquency.
Interesting sidelights on the political situation as they relate to the business of nominating presidential candidates will be told by various speakers at the meeting set for April 25.
But he started east and reached El Paso, where there was apparently need of more funds. So he wrote more checks, and was caught. He had served 15 days of a nine-months sentence there when Orange county officers brought him back to California and his present sentence.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR 'PAT' HURD MONDAY 2 P. M.

Brother officers of Lauren E. ("Pat") Hurd, 26, state traffic officer, who died at the Santa Fe hospital, Los Angeles, Thursday, following an operation, will have charge of the funeral services to be held for him at the Winbigger Mission Funeral home, 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon.
The pallbearers will be members of the Orange county state traffic squad. A motorcycle escort, made up of traffic officers from five counties, will lead the funeral procession from the Winbigger parlors to the Central Memorial park, where burial will be made.
The pallbearers, named today, are: Vernon Barnhill, Ernie Sawyer, F. C. Yoder, Ray Bradfield, George Peterkin and Harry Aldrich.
The San Diego county squad will send 12 officers to attend the funeral from that county, four will be here from Riverside county, three from San Bernardino county and two from Imperial county. These counties are in the same traffic department district as Orange county, and all come under the supervision of Inspector Walter Greer, under whom Hurd was working at the time of his death.
The Los Angeles county office of the state traffic department will send five inspectors to show the respect in which Officer Hurd was held in that city.
Hurd will be buried in his uniform as a state officer, it was said. The Rev. Charles F. Selinger, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate at the services.

ARRANGE DANCE TO SWELL FUND FOR F. VAUGHN

Plans were being made today by the Orange county Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, in connection with the American Legion and The Register for a dance, to be held at the American Legion home on Birch street, to raise additional funds to aid Frank Vaughn, state traffic officer, who is in a Los Angeles hospital, permanently disabled.
The date set for the dance is April 23, it was announced today. Other plans have not been completed.
Vaughn was a member of the 40 and 8, and American Legion. The latter organization has been of great help to him during the past several months, but the Legion wants to do more and it was through the ex-service men's organization that the dance was planned.
Checks for "The Vaughn Fund" continued to be received yesterday, the total for the day being $57 which had not been reported.

BRING MAN HERE ON SPEEDING CHARGE
State Traffic Officers C. J. Cain and George Stinson left here this morning for Los Angeles to return Frank J. Bell to Orange county to answer to a charge of speeding 51 miles an hour and failure to appear.
Bell was arrested by Los Angeles police last night on word received from the state traffic office here and is being held in jail there.
According to F. C. Yoder, state officer, he arrested Bell on February 5 on the Irvine Boulevard and wrote him a ticket charging speeding at 51 miles an hour. Bell was slated to appear here on February 11, but did not, Yoder said.
At the time of the arrest, Yoder claimed that a man riding with Bell, got out of the car and said he was Earl Gahaba. Gahaba told the officer, he said, that he "tore up tickets before and he guessed he would tear this one up."

SPRAGUE WINS 'HICK' DERBY AT POLY H. S.

Clarence Sprague, prize rube.
His claims were officially recognized when the rube day contest was held among the students of the Santa Ana polytechnic high school yesterday. All Pools Day.
At the grand award, Sprague was given a bunch of calla lilies.
The contest to choose the "best" costumes worn by the students to school for the rube day celebration was held following the assembly program. The prizes winners were selected by popular applause of the students who gathered for a colorful dance program in Andrews gymnasium.
Pedagogues Parade
Rube day this year was one of the best that the Santa Ana high school has observed, it was agreed by students and faculty members. All of the students and many of the faculty were dressed in hick costumes. Among the faculty members, Robert Bates was considered to have the best outfit. He was in a negro costume.
Sprague was dressed as a woman with trailing skirts and bushy red hair topped with a black bonnet.
The prize for having the best boy's makeup went to Frank Hilligass, who was a duplicate of Lloyd Hamilton, film comedian. Among the girls, Miss Julia Thorndike, in a fantastic dress, won first award.
The assembly, held in the afternoon, was one of the biggest events of the day. It was opened with a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That the Law of Gravitation Is Unconstitutional and Should Be Repealed." Herbert Prior, arguing against the law of gravity, said that Newton didn't discover the law but he simply found out that "the bigger they are the harder they fall." His "college" was Edwin Gerhardt. Herbert's twin brother, Hubert Prior, and Chester Page argued the affirmative. One of the telling points brought out was that gravity was the only law that has not been broken.
Apples Discussed
A "saucy" discourse on a "fruitful" subject, "Apples," was given by Robert Bates.
Students of the high school drama class, directed by Ernest Crozier Phillips, presented a farcical play, "The Tub." Members of the cast were Carlton Buck, William Jerome, Oliver Early and Howard Moore. The final numbers of the assembly program were songs by Misses N.ada Smith and Lorene Croddy and orchestra selections.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Heroes are men of deeds, not merely of words. It is the faith you live, and not merely the belief you profess, which tells the story of what you are in process of becoming.

Do not talk about your confidence in the future unless you want to; but see to it that, with God's help, your life endeavor tells the story of what you are hoping to be ready for when the day is done.

L. A. Sewage Plant

Permit Is Granted

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Los Angeles sanitary district No. 2 today was granted a permit by the state board of health to construct a sewage sedimentary plant near Harbor City and an ocean outfall opposite White Point, San Pedro, applied for. Strict regulation of the sewage disposed of is provided under the conditions of the permit, which stipulates that only settled sewage may be emptied into the ocean, at a point nearly a mile off-shore, instead of screened sewage 2260 feet off-shore, as asked in the original petition.

PICTURE GIRLS

FREE AS 'MAN'

SUPPLIES FINES

Gail Webster, who said her real name was Gail Royce, and Marjorie Stuart, movie extras, with a company on location at Balboa both of whom were fined $50 each for being drunk at Huntington Beach, are out of jail today and back with their company.

Miss Webster, or Royce, was released yesterday afternoon when the fine money was paid at the jail by Miss Stuart, who had been freed the day before when "some man" paid her fine. Huntington Beach police did not give out the name of the "man."

Both girls called Harold "Red" Grange, ice man, football player, and movie actor, and asked him to pay their fines, but whether the "some man" was Mr. Grange, probably never will be known.

The Webster girl said today that she would let the reporters guess who paid the fines, but she could not deny that Grange telephoned Santa Ana yesterday afternoon to know if she was still in jail—in fact, she admitted it.

Although neither of the girls "let slip" the name of their benefactor, they left the impression it was not Grange, but was C. Pyle, Grange's manager, with whom they said, they talked over long distance telephone Thursday.

Miss Webster said that Pyle "bawled her out" because the names of Pyle and Grange were dragged into their arrest stories.

Both girls said they were sworn to secrecy concerning the name of the man who paid the fines.

One of the most vigorous efforts being waged in the city campaign, which comes to a close here on Monday, April 11, is that being made by Charles F. Carlson, 313 Normandy Place, candidate for the city council from the third ward.

Carlson has been in the race from the start and his friends say his chances of representing the third ward after April 11 look exceedingly bright at this time.

A native of Springfield, Mo., Carlson has been in Santa Ana since 1911. He is a sanitary engineer by trade, operating his own shop at 807 East First street, since 1914.

Well known among the craftsmen of Santa Ana, Carlson is also identified with a number of fraternal organizations, including the Elks, and the Odd Fellows. He also is a member of the Builders' Exchange.

"I am not under obligation to anyone and I am making no campaign promises. If I am elected, I just want to give the city a good, fair business administration," he said today.

BANK OF ITALY

TO DINE EMPLOYEES

As the first step in the new plan of organization and administration of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings association, whereby Los Angeles was created as a regional division of the bank's operations, a dinner will be given this evening at the Los Angeles Biltmore at which approximately 800 officials of the bank will gather.

In the Southern California jurisdiction the bank has 119 branch managers, 500 members of advisory boards, 82 regional board members, all of whom will be at the dinner, together with a large number of guests. Honor guests will include 17 officials of the bank from the San Francisco division as follows:

A. Giannini, chairman of the advisory committee; James A. Baughman, president; L. Scatena, chairman of board of directors; L. M. Giannini, vice-chairman of board of directors; and A. J. Mount, A. Pedrini, W. W. Douglas, A. J. Glauber, Leo V. Belden, A. J. Gock, George A. Webster, A. E. Scarboro, Edward C. Aldwell, A. E. Burdick, Louis Ferrari, A. W. Hendrick, John M. Grant and P. C. Hale, vice-presidents.

Orre E. Monnette, vice-chairman of the board of directors and the general executive committee and chairman of the regional board, will be master of ceremonies.

Among those from Santa Ana who will attend the banquet are: M. D. Clark, John Norton, Fleetwood Bell, Sterling Price, John Hey and J. M. Cloyes.

lengthy petitions required to place a candidate's name on the primary election ballot. This bill was adopted by the senate.

Insurance Bill Delayed

The compulsory automobile insurance measure, by Senator Sanborn Young, of Los Gatos, has been temporarily delayed because of illness of its author. It may be considered in the senate next week.

Assemblyman Rochester's bill, making the first divorce decree immediate and final, is due to create a heated fight on the floor of the lower house when it comes up. Passed out by committee without recommendation, the bill has drawn fire from all quarters of the state.

Among the most important bills adopted by the senate during the week just ended were:

Giving the wife a present, existing and equal interest in community property; permitting a plea in criminal cases or "not guilty by reason of insanity"; requiring rigid examination of all persons who wish to become automobile operators; reappointment and placing statues of Thomas Starr King and Father Junipero Serra in the hall of fame at Washington.

Major bills passed by the assembly included Governor Young's budget, the Rochester measure providing "alimony for husbands," and the bill creating a state curriculum board.

Peter Becomes a Disciple of Jesus

Text: Mark 1:14-18, 29-31

Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God.

And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel.

Now as he walked by the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea; for they were fishers.

And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you fishers of men.

And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him.

And forthwith, when they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. But Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her.

And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up; and immediately the fever left her, and she ministered unto them.

The International Uniform Sunday school lesson for April 3, Peter Becomes a Disciple of Jesus. Mark 1:14-18, 29-31.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The story of the calling of the early disciples and of their leaving all to follow Jesus is an amazing chapter in the records of spiritual adventure.

One might say it was unique in these records; but, as a matter of fact, it is but a high light in the story of the deepest and greatest thing in life has led men repeatedly to great acts of renunciation and ways of courage in devotion to truth and in the service of mankind.

One thinks of the ancient prophets, called from their humble tasks to witness God's truth in the busy places of men. One thinks of such leaders as St. Francis of Assisi, renouncing all things for the glory of living in lowly Christian service and devotion to the poor and needy. One thinks of men like John Bunyan, gladly giving up even freedom for the more precious freedom of practicing and proclaiming his faith.

Modern instances

And one could find even in our modern materialistic civilization more instances than we sometimes realize of those who have forsaken all to follow Jesus. Some of these are perhaps as unorthodox and as much scorned and vilified as were those who long ago heard the voice of Jesus as he called men to him in Galilee and Judea.

But all of this great life of spiritual adventure is not strange and unconventional and unorthodox. In the ordinary conventional paths of life there will be found those who, without ostentation and without any air of superior wisdom or superior sanctity, do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with their God. These, though there be seemingly no great adventure to their lives, have heard

The greatest of all his references to intercessory prayer is his prayer for Peter that, in the time of his sifting by Satan, Peter's faith should not fail.

But it was in the divine power of Jesus to see the strength in men beneath their weakness. He saw Peter's possibilities for good just as he sees ours, and he scattered away the chaff that he might hold the pure wheat of Peter's character.

Can we not apply the call of Jesus to our own lives? We are so much like Peter in our weaknesses, and possibly also in our elements of strength. Can we not obey the call of Jesus as Peter obeyed it and find in Christ the power to overcome our weakness and to let our strength count for Christ's service?

Merry Event Planned As Compliment to Easter Bride

Two active members of the Philathea class of the First M. E. Sunday school, Miss Ruth Oaks and Mrs. Orville Northrup, conspired with their teacher, Mrs. J. W. McCormac, to honor their bride-member, Miss Cleo Bowers, at a delightful party given Thursday evening in the McCormac home, 112 Church street.

For Miss Bowers is to wed Fred Hein on Easter Sunday, and hence is the object of various hospitalities on the part of her friends. However none have been pleasanter than that of Thursday evening, nor have any of them had a lovelier setting. For the charm of Mrs. McCormac's home was increased by the lavish use of brightly tinted spring flowers as a background for the guests in their pretty gowns.

A series of lively contests were staged, and Easter favors awarded as prizes, were secured by Miss May Beamer and Miss Lydia Fisher.

As the evening drew to a close, the three hostesses invited their guests to the dining-room where long tables presented a beautiful sight with bridal appointments and pale pink candles, each proudly wearing a flaring tulle bow whose delicate tints were repeated in the nut cups. A dainty two-course supper menu was served.

With the conclusion of the refreshment interval, Mrs. Frances Wehrich, class president, presented Miss Bowers with a handsome pair of silver candlesticks with pale green candles, the gift of the Philatheans to their Easter bride. At the same time, Mrs. McCormac presented her gift, a set of exquisite plate dillies. For every Philathea bride has added a set of these dillies to her household linens, the custom being one of those countless characteristics of Mrs. McCormac that make her so well loved by her girls. A similar gift was presented Mrs. Jack Snow (Thurza Van Nest) a very recent bride and a newcomer to the class, so she, too, will have her teacher represented in her cherished bridal linens.

Many of the Philatheans members are now away at college, but among those still in the city to share the hospitality of Mrs. McCormac, Mrs. Northrup and Miss Cleo Bowers, Miss Eleanor Adams, Miss Elaine Wharton, Miss May Duling, Miss Margaret Kuhl, Miss Muriel Kuhl, Mrs. Frances Wehrich, Mrs. James Hughes, Miss Lydia Fisher, Mrs. Edward J. Franz, Mrs. Jack Snow, Miss Gladys Bush, Miss May Beamer and Miss Irene Blower.

Style Show Featured At Inn Dance

A merry spirit prevailed in the ballroom at St. Ann's Inn last night when the usual appreciative crowd gathered for dancing which began at 9 o'clock.

The St. Ann's Inn orchestra offered its most entrancing music, and dancers enjoyed the succession of fox trots and one steps with an occasional dreamy waltz. When intermission came, the crowd, instead of seeking the corridors and foyer, remained to enjoy a display of lovely spring costumes presented by the Rankin store. These embraced filmy frocks, formal afternoon and evening gowns and smart cloaks. There were also attractive junior styles displayed, and in every respect the interval was uniquely enjoyable.

Those taking part in the style show were Mrs. Lore Brown, Mrs. Edith Davidson, Mrs. Alice Connor, Mrs. Elt Faupel, Miss Ada Larson, Miss Corinne Pennington, Miss Mary Wall, Miss Jersham Randall and little Miss Doris Faupel. They received instruction and training from Miss Mabel Rockwell of the Rockwell School of Dancing.

The dances will continue to be Friday night features at the Inn.

Friendly Kansans Hold Club Meeting

The Long Island Kensington club, whose membership is made up of Santa Anans who formerly lived in Long Island, Phillips county, Kans., had one of its most successful meetings Thursday afternoon when Mrs. C. C. Cozad entertained at her home, 804 East First street.

Forty guests were entertained, one of the largest gatherings for several years. Games and conversation sped the afternoon hours, and welcome was extended Mrs. Leon Utter, who with Mr. Utter, arrived recently from Long Island. Both are quite delighted with California in general and Santa Ana in particular, and will probably locate here.

Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Cozad, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Leo Fallert of Fullerton, Mrs. Cassius Cluster of Tustin and Mrs. Glen Breeding of this city, served salad, wafers, coffee, cake and home-made ice cream, rich and delicious.

The club's next meeting will be with Mrs. Glen Breeding on the last Thursday in April.

Debating Teams Join In Merriment of School Dance

After the debate between Santa Ana and Alhambra last night, during the course of which sharp words were hurled back and forth, the students of the two schools restored amicable relations by joining in the enjoyment of a dance given under the auspices of the Forum club of the Santa Ana high school.

The Alhambra students were invited to remain for the affair as guests of the Santa Ana high school.

Honors were heaped upon Byron Magee, of the winning Alhambra debating team, who also took the prize dancing with Miss Ruby Jane Heim in a contest to choose the best couple on the floor. Miss Ethel West and Frank Hilligass of Santa Ana were runners-up.

Chester Paxe, of the Forum club, was in charge of the dance. The hall was decorated in the red and white of Santa Ana and the yellow and black of Alhambra.

During the evening, the contest to decide the best all-around student at the high school was concluded. Wyler Garbyle won after a close race with Hubert Prior.

The floor was thronged with students of the two schools. The dance was the best attended of any that has been held this year at the high school. It was said. Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Oliver and Mr. and Mrs. William Poote.

Guests Enjoy Chat And Needlework

Needlework and chat provided entertainment for a group of guests who yesterday afternoon enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Amelia Perkins in her home, 820 West Third street.

Each member was asked to recall some interesting or strange event in her life. Mrs. Perkins leading the way by describing a remarkable incident of Americanization which she witnessed in the Ford plant in Detroit. In this, a stream of emigrants were pictured as they left the steamer for strange shores. All types were shown, as they poured into the "melting pot," later coming out as prosperous respectable Americans.

The afternoon closed with the refreshment hour during which the hostesses served an appetizing three course menu.

Her guests included Mrs. F. M. Gist, Mrs. Vance, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. C. E. Price, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Vaness, Mrs. O'Connor, Miss Coshart, Miss Pringle, all of this city, and Mrs. Richards of New York.

The fashionable woman finds many uses for the semi-dress, something not quite so severe as she would wear for shopping or for street, something for matinees, bridge parties, informal teas and relatively unimportant affairs.

For such occasions a new type of frock has been developed that has the ease and casual line of the sport dress, but is interpreted in figured or embroidered fabrics, made more feminine by the large hat, or more conservative by the small model that carries out the main color.

Quick Changes

Women today must be able to make changes in clothes quickly, because the fashionable day may bring many distinct social diversities that call for particular costumes. There is little patience with the involved frock that has elaborate closings and requires a maid's attendance.

The jumper and the skirt on the slip foundation have spoiled women for more formal attire. Since women have learned that comfort and style may be reconciled they demand comfort in every particular.

No fashionable woman will tolerate a hat that is not perfectly fitted, and hence perfectly comfortable, or will she wear small shoes for appearance's sake. She will not suffer any longer for style, because her intelligence tells her this is not necessary or desirable.

Debs' Approval

Illustrated today are three of the semi-dress frocks that the debutantes today sponsor. They have youth, pep and dash, and will stand the somewhat vigorous wear that the modern girl gives her clothes.

Very spring-like is the two-piece costume of white silk crepe, with the blouse embroidered in Chinese medallions outlined with two rows of white china beads, and a skirt of white silk crepe with inverted pleats.

The embroidery combines shades of yellow, rose, pale blue and apple green, and hence the hat of yellow Italian straw with tucked crown and slightly rippling brim carries out the color scheme, emphasizing the color that is particularly noticeable.

Printed silks are due for an enormous vogue in spite of their popularity last season and the season before. This year, designs are more artistic than ever before and color treatments more subtle.

The printed frock pictured flaunts yellow, red, green and lavender flowers and then wisely refrains from any trimming except the lavender crepe de chine which edges the blouse and forms a tie at the neck and the soft wide girdele carelessly knotted in front. The large hat of lavender straw is wide enough of brim to terrify any but the most skilful dancer.

Printed and plain crepes are combined in the model with the skirt of bright red silk crepe with tiered sides and back, with blouse of white pongee embroidered in red, yellow and green. The red crepe used for the skirt forms the tiny vest and the bands that accent the collar and sleeves.

For daytime, the crepe de chine and chiffon frock will lead the mode though there are many alternatives in the newer heavy crepes, crepena, georgette crepe lace, and the wash silks with stripes and checks that are very desirable for sport wear.

Pastel colors and all black will distribute the honors between themselves. Girdles and belts are featured and sleeves are almost invariably long, though one French designer is trying out the three-quarter length.

Country Club Plans For April Are Outlined

Dancing has been chosen for the diversion of two of the four general social affairs listed in the Santa Ana Country club calendar for April, according to the bulletin just sent out to the members by the manager, E. T. McGilvray.

Next Friday night, April 8, will be the first informal dance, beginning at 9 o'clock. Members may entertain guests upon payment of a small sum. On Friday night, April 29, a more formal event will be held, a supper dance beginning at 8:30 o'clock and with a buffet supper at 10:30.

The usual afternoon bridge party will be featured on Wednesday the thirteenth, and the players may make reservations for luncheon in the solarium, preceding the games. Luncheon will be served from 12:30 until 2 o'clock.

The evening bridge which both men and women of the club membership, enjoy so greatly, will be featured Friday night, April 22, and the usual attractive prizes will reward skilled players.

Golf tournaments which have proven so popular during March, will be continued throughout April and one feature of special interest to femininity, will be the ladies' tournament of Thursday, April 14, when Huntington Beach members under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. K. McDonald, will be in charge.

Birthday Surprise Is Planned to Honor Mrs. Zaiser

Planned by Dr. and Mrs. Harry Zaiser as an informal birthday surprise for Mrs. Adam Zaiser, a party held last night at the home of the latter, proved to be one of those old-time gatherings in which every member of the family joined with enthusiasm.

Its successful features included the surprise, for Mrs. Adam Zaiser had received no intimation that her friends were conspiring to make her a party honoree. They met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Boyer and proceeded to the Zaiser home on Yorba street, in one merry group.

Music formed one of the chief entertainment features of the evening after Mrs. Zaiser had recovered from the surprise. Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh was pressed into service not only as soloist, but as accompanist for other singers and for the lively choruses in which everyone joined. Unusually pleasant were the duets she sang with her own young daughter, Miss Helen Slabaugh, their numbers including "Mighty Lak a Rose" and "Whispering Hope."

Mrs. George Guenther gave a delightful whistling solo, "Manzanillo," and also whistled an accompaniment for one of Mrs. Slabaugh's solos, "By the Waters of the Minnetonka." Other solos given by the popular vocalist included such requested numbers as "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me," and other favorites, and she and Dr. Harry Zaiser delighted everyone with their duet, "In Thy Heart," sung in German.

Dr. Harry Zaiser sang "Asleep in the Deep" and he and Mrs. Slabaugh led in old favorites without number, with all the guests, young and old, joining in.

Late in the evening two big tables were arranged for serving the varied refreshments brought by the thoughtful guests, prominence being given a towering birthday cake with gleaming candles.

Those asked to share in the pleasant evening and extend birthday wishes to Mrs. Zaiser, included in addition to the host, Adam Zaiser and the chief actors in the pleasant plot, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Zaiser, Dr. and Mrs. James E. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Borchard, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Talbert, of Huntington Beach; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zaiser, Mrs. Frances Wehrich and Master Herbert Wehrich, Mr. and Mrs. George Guenther, of Camp Baldy; Mrs. Margaret Zaiser, the Misses Esther and Laura Zaiser, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh and Miss Helen Slabaugh, Mrs. Margaret Howard, Mrs. Grace Zaiser and Miss Mary Zaiser, and Mr. and Mrs. William Ihler, of Anaheim.

From six to seven miles of canvas approximately a yard wide, ten miles of rope and fifty miles of twine entered into the making of a circus tent of the largest size.

Fine-cut chewing tobacco was first manufactured in 1838, at Centerville, Mich.

DIETING IS NOT STARVING

"Eating more fresh fruit, green vegetables, especially milk, makes for the improvement of the health."

Dr. McCollum

"As fast as consumers come to know and to act upon the knowledge that fruits, vegetables and milk are really worth more, and meats and sweets less, as food, then has hitherto been supposed, they will shift their present demands."

Industrial and Engr. Chemistry.

Grain crops supply about three-fifths of the food of the world. The smaller the income the more people depend upon grain. Even if grain was not milled as at present, the necessary calcium, vitamin C (preventive of skin diseases) and fat soluble vitamins would be needed. We once thought that because grain was starchy it could be supplemented by fish and meat. Now we learn that fresh vegetables, fruits and especially milk, are much better.

For full growth, plenty of energy, possession of teeth, and general good health, there is but one answer. The diet must contain all the elements that the body needs. Experience of the ages proves this. The vitamin must be had by the body just as leavened bread must have the yeast ferment. A quart of fresh or fresh pasteurized milk daily for every adult is a test that every adult owes himself. The proof is simple, inexpensive and the results will be self-evident. A test with Excelsior will assure you of the best in quality and purity.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Mary Anoints the Feet of Jesus

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. W. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROEBEN

Six days before going to Jerusalem for the Passover and the closing scenes of his earthly life, Jesus and his disciples stopped for supper at the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus at Bethany. Mary took a pound of very costly ointment and anointed the feet of Jesus. (John XII: 1-3)

"She wiped his feet with her hair; and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment." (John XII: 3)

Judas objected, saying the precious ointment should have been sold and the money given to the poor. (John XII: 5-6)

Jesus knew Judas cared not for the poor. He rebuked him, saying, "Let her alone . . . the poor always ye have with you; but me ye have not always." (John XII: 6-8)

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The little girl came running fast. She said, "My gander's caught at last. I think 'twas very fine of you to help me in my chase. But, first of all please tell me who you are, and what you plan to do." As Scouty said, "We're 'Tynmites," a smile spread over her face. "Oh, yes," she said, "Friend Mother Goose told me your hand was running loose and looking all about her land. I'm glad you stopped off here. I'd like to have you play with me. Let's run up to my house and see if we can't find amusement that will bring you all much cheer." So, off they all ran, up a hill. Course Clowny had to take a spill, and when he did he started rolling like a rubber ball. Wee Coppy caught him by the toes, and then he shouted, "Goodness knows, no matter where we travel to, you always have to fall." The climb was long, and rather hard, but soon they reached the small girl's yard, and Scouty, looking just ahead, exclaimed, "What is that thing?" "Oh, don't you know?" someone replied. "Well, watch me now! I'll jump inside." And, when he did, wee Scouty found, 'twas just an outdoor swing. They all took turns and had much fun, and when the afternoon was done, the Tynies told the little girl they had to run along. Said she, "To see another sight, just take that road off to the right. 'Twill lead you to a pumpkin house. Walk in straight. You can't go wrong." The funny pumpkin house was found, and, out in front, upon the ground, stood Peter, Peter, Pumpkin eater, owner of the place. He kept his wife inside, they say, for fear that she would run away. And now that she was safe and sound, a smile spread over his face.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, cream, rice waffles, new maple syrup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Shrimp stew, toasted crackers, lettuce rolls, rye bread and butter sandwiches, rice pudding, milk, tea.
DINNER—Grilled fresh cod, rice potatoes, beet greens, stuffed prune salad, cinnamon toast, bran bread, pineapple ice, sponge cake, milk, coffee.
Tiny squares of hot cinnamon toast are served with the dinner salad. The prunes themselves are soaked overnight in cold water to cover and then very gently simmered in the same water until plump but not soft. Drain, chill and remove stones. Then stuff with a combination of peanut butter and cream cheese.
Shrimp stew is out of the ordinary and quite as acceptable as oyster stew.
Shrimp Stew
One pound fresh shrimps, 4 tablespoons butter, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon flour, 1 tablespoon minced parsley.
Remove shells from fish and with a sharp pointed knife remove tiny dark vein. Wash thoroughly and run cold water through them. Drain slightly. Put butter and shrimps into stew pan, add salt, pepper and simmer over a low fire for fifteen minutes. Add milk and bring to the boiling point. Rub flour into 1 tablespoon butter and stir into hot stew. Cook five minutes, stirring constantly, sprinkle with parsley and serve with toasted crackers.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

A SCALP TREATMENT

If you suffer from really very bad dandruff, here's a treatment which will most likely cure the trouble. It's a bit of a bother, but if you want to get rid of the dandruff or serious scalp troubles which takes years and years to develop, you must expect a little bother.

The complete treatment takes two days. I mean, first day, you rub the scalp with either crude oil or sulphur ointment. Crude oil is black and smelly but valuable for scalp treatments. Sulphur ointment is nothing but petroleum, cold cream or lard, mixed with powdered flower of sulphur. The amount is about half and half. Either oil or ointment must be very carefully applied, parting the hair and rubbing the stuff along the parting, so as to smear up the hair as little as possible. I'd suggest a nightcap, to protect your pillow.

Next day, shampoo. Use an anti-septic soap—two per cent bichloride soap is good. The druggist will suggest others. Whichever it is, melt it to a thin syrup mixture with hot water and keep in a bottle. Soap the hair four different times, using clear hot water with each soaping, for this thick oil is hard to get off. Rinse (that will be easy) and dry. The more massage with either ointment or shampoo, the better, for massage plays a large part in this treatment. Next day, oil, next shampoo. Next after that, oil, and then shampoo, and this carries you through the week. Forget the treatment the seventh day and begin the week all over again with the treatment as before. Do this for at least four weeks, then examine your scalp and see if there is an improvement (there will be). Go on a few weeks more until the trouble is over.

Mary H.—An old time remedy to cure the habit of nail biting was to paint a very little bit of bitter aloes under the finger tips. It usually did what was expected, for aloes is so very bitter that after once attempting to bite one didn't attempt to a second time. You might try it, and it will not make you sick or hurt you even if you do get some into your mouth.

R. K.—Avoid the very fattening foods, such as sugar, fat meats, and white bread, but do not try to reduce through exercise or thinning down your diet until you have fully recovered from your recent illness. When you are able to take exercise normally you may lose this extra weight again.

Miss M. S.—Never try to remove moles yourself, and unless they are disfiguring, or on the face, they need not concern you. Try lemon juice on the liver spots; if they persist have professional treatment with the electric needle.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

I am sure we have all, at some time, out in an open field or in a neighboring patch of woods, played "Indians," and spent hours constructing preposterous tents. So we can feel a bond of sympathy with the tent caterpillar, but it is hard to forgive him the destruction caused by him and his little tent.

We feel that somehow we must aid Nature in overcoming these pests of our fruit, shade and hardwood trees. Tent caterpillars belong to a family of silk spinners closely related to the "silk worm" of commerce.

When full size they are about two inches long with a cylindrical body, lightly clothed with yellow hairs of varying lengths. They are black in color with a white stripe down the middle of the back.

The eggs from which tent caterpillars hatch are laid by the parent moth in wonderfully neat, ring-like masses around the twigs. We may nip the evil in the bud by removing and destroying the egg-masses during the winter months. As each ring or cluster of eggs contains from 200 to 400 eggs the possibilities of doing good control work are evident.

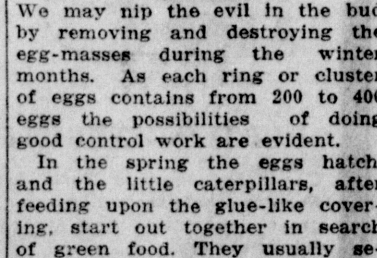

In the spring the eggs hatch, and the little caterpillars, after feeding upon the glue-like covering, start out together in search of green food. They usually select a fork not far from the egg-mass and start a nest for themselves, building a tent to which they return when not feeding upon leaves on nearby twigs.

The American or apple tree tent caterpillar often become numerous enough to completely defoliate many kinds of orchard and shade trees; it seems to prefer wild cherry.

Today's Anniversaries

1805—Hans Christian Andersen, the famous writer of fairy tales, born at Odense, Denmark. Died in Copenhagen, August 4, 1875.

1847—Warlike demonstrations were used to compel China to respect the stipulations of treaties made with foreign governments.

1865—Prince Kung, the Chinese regent, was degraded on a charge of arrogance.

1873—July 4 was made a legal holiday in Pennsylvania by act of the legislature.

1881—Farmers of Iowa met in State convention in Des Moines to form a "protective association."

1889—Proclamation of Governor Stevenson of Idaho calling for the election of delegates to a constitutional convention.

1904—The Australian ballot system was successfully introduced at local elections in Wisconsin.

1906—China entered the international postal union.

50 FIFTY DOLLARS TO LIVE

Anne Steese Richardson, magazine writer, confesses that it costs her $50 a month every month of her life "just to keep alive," all because she was the family pack horse in her younger days. But what to do about it? Many housewives would find it as easy to die as spend $50 either to keep alive, or for something that will relieve them of the "family pack horse job."

WOMAN'S BELIEF

Women have a deeper faith in immortality than have men, according to a symposium of belief in immortality which a current woman's magazine presents with quotes from dozens of the world's greatest. One answer might be that women have to believe in something better after this, or they couldn't go on with this.

ROSE-BEIGE SHOESIES

It seems to me that I smelled the good aroma of food for thought this noon—if not a real meal with chops and potatoes and salad, at least a chicken salad with rolls. The food for thought assailed me in the store windows. Shoes, for instance. Frivolous, silly, useless shoes of rose-beige kid, silver metallic cloth, grey suede, heels like stilts, and as much use for walking and hiking as a hobbleskirt is for a marathon. Hose like stardust. Jewels. Elogers. Perfumes. Powders. Opera capes. Pearls. Feather fans. Beaded bags.

FEMININITY ON RAMPAGE

Let's see, we've heard quite a bit the past few years about the masculinization of women; the death of the charm of femininity when women began earning her living in the crass workaday world. It is interesting to notice the vamping of the square-toed shoes and blue tailored suit in business and the birth within office walls of the flower on the shoulder and the high-heeled rose-beige slipper. Femininity has never been so on the rampage as today!

IS CAL "A KITCHEN BESSY?"

The White House grocery bills are always within $1000 a month. This is the revelation of one Elizabeth Jaffray, housekeeper at the White House for many a year, who left during the Coolidge administration. She does not say in so many words that she left the White House because the president was "a kitchen Bessy," but she does comment at length about the president's perusal of the grocery bills, his awe and alarm at knowing six hams has been ordered for one luncheon, and his insistence at seeing the day's menus. It would seem then that even First Ladies aren't spared "kitchen Bessy" husbands!

"Just Folks"

by Edgar A. Guest

NO TIME TO WRITE

"No time to write," is what he said. And yet he'd had a day. At seven o'clock he quit his bed And hurried on his way. He might have penned a little line And still have reached his desk by nine.

A sheet of paper and a pen Were handy things, and yet Before he hurried out at ten He smoked a cigarette. Before that smoke had reached the end A line or two he could have penned.

"Dear Mother, I am feeling well, And busy as can be, This is a hasty line to tell You not to fret o'er me. I'll see you when this job is done, Till then, I am, your loving son."

I timed myself, and that I wrote In sixty seconds time, It's just a hasty little note. And I was forced to rhyme. But such a letter any day Would drive a mother's fears away.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

The busy housewife will be relieved to learn, I am sure, that the great, busy, pulsating commercial world that considers woman's every need, has placed on the market a patented eyelash curler. Nor is it so simple as a mere curler. When dexterously applied to both upper and lower lids, eyelash dye can be applied without staining the fair flesh beneath. And we bet that the house-to-house canvasser would make much more money with these than with aluminum stew pans, women being what they are, praise be! What a dreary world if women cared for nothing but the mops and stew-pans!

Let's see, we've heard quite a bit the past few years about the masculinization of women; the death of the charm of femininity when women began earning her living in the crass workaday world. It is interesting to notice the vamping of the square-toed shoes and blue tailored suit in business and the birth within office walls of the flower on the shoulder and the high-heeled rose-beige slipper. Jack Baxley, Evelyn Porter and Jerry O'Meara, three well known vaudeville performers, who come to the Yost Broadway theater Sunday.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
A varied program of vaudeville is billed for Sunday and Monday at the Yost Broadway, in which comedy, melody, dancing and novelty vie with each other for popularity. It is one of the best balanced bills of the season and is expected to prove a hit here. Foremost among the acts is Jerry O'Meara and company, in a bathing beach flirtation skit called "Beach Nuts." Jerry O'Meara has an individual comedy method of quiet delivery and an underlying sense of humor that adds materially to the act's popularity. He is assisted by Mary Landis and E. C. Sprague. Although Jerry O'Meara has been playing in this sketch for four or five seasons, it remains as fresh and spirited as on its first appearance. The premier marionette act in vaudeville, Marlette's Marionettes, is included in the bill. These tiny mannikins, perfect reproductions of the human figure in every detail, give a miniature vaudeville show. Jack Baxley, character actor and Constance Talmadge, who will be seen in "The Venus of Venice," film coming to the Yost Broadway theater Sunday.

A scene from "The Wrong Mr. Wright," starring Jean Hersholt, which comes to the West Coast-Walker theater Sunday.

Lillian Porter, a fine looking girl of pleasing personality, have an excellent variety of songs and comedy. Baxley appears as an old man sticking to such songs as "Silver Threads Among the Gold," while Miss Porter, his neighbor, is the up to date American girl who favors the Charleston and new-fangled musical selections.

A choice selection of new song members of the popular style will be presented by Edwards and Lilyan, a pair of unusually talented entertainers. They have fine voices and a repertoire of songs that more than please.

There is no such word as "acromedians" in the dictionary. It has been coined by Russell and Hayes to express their stage efforts and is a construction of acrobat and comedian. These two men are both. They are capable of the most difficult gymnastic feats, but they add materially to the effectiveness of their execution by performing them in a comic way. Feats and fun is really the definition of the word "Acromedians."

On the screen will be shown "Venus of Venice," a picture starring Constance Talmadge.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Hit after hit, that's the policy of the West Coast-Walker theater, now showing Laura La Plante's latest feature comedy, "The Love Thrill."

The photoplay is decidedly a Laura La Plante feature and the vivacious, sparkling blonde comedienne makes the most of every opportunity. She seemed to have the audience that crowded the theater last night hypnotized, from her first salty tear to her final, famously dimpled smile.

The stage presentation is five big acts of Fanchon and Marco selected vaudeville, featuring an unusually clever group of artists including several singers, dancers and comedians.

YOST THEATER

A motion picture that moves with the celerity of a machine gun. That is Zane Grey's story of a great family feud—and how it affected a girl. "Born to the West" is the tale of two boys, who as school lads, fought over a girl. On reaching manhood, their paths cross again. Then—but you'd better see the film when it arrives tonight at the Yost theater.

It is fast moving, colorful and full of action every moment. There are wild rides, stirring adventure, gun fights and an exciting rescue of Margaret Morris by Jack Holt. Through it all runs the mystery and romance always connected with Zane Grey, Jack Holt, with quick brain and iron nerve, escapes from many tight places, but never from the heart of the girl.

"Born to the West" includes in its cast, besides Miss Morris and Holt—Raymond Hatton, Arlette Marchal and George Siegman.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The gay, jazz-mad life as led by some of the younger generation is told in vivid strokes in "Sin Cargo" which was seen here for the first time yesterday at the Yost Broadway theater.

Most of the action of this highly dramatic picture takes place on a palatial yacht upon which a party of merry-makers discard all conventions and proceed to have the time of their young lives. Knowing the reputation of the owner of the yacht, the young heroine manages to outwit him and prove to her brother who is anxious that she marry the knave, that he is untrustworthy. The advent of a sea captain, young and handsome, further complicates matters for the scheming ruse.

Laura La Plante and Bryant Washburn in a scene from "The Love Thrill," picture closing tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater.

Movie Chatterbox

Advancement is quicker in Hollywood cinema studios than in any other place in the world—so is regression.

One "hit" sends a man to the top in the celluloid profession. Three bad pictures shove him to the bottom again. The favorite expression in this hamlet is "he was made over night." That usually means that after three or six years of struggling as an unknown, a man scores one picture and is hailed as a new hero in movie realms.

"The Covered Wagon" made Jim Cruze. "The Sheik" made Rudolph Valentino. Many other instances could be cited—but that is another yarn. In this story I will deal with the fortunes of four men—Victor Fleming, Frank Hopper, Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack.

Fleming Steps Up
"The Rough Riders," film tale of Theodore Roosevelt's exploits in the Spanish-American war, brings these men into public prominence. "The Rough Riders" has done for Director Victor Fleming just what "The Covered Wagon" did for Cruze. With its completion Fleming stepped into the ranks of filmdom's leading directors.

There is nothing spectacular about the picture. It is a great production because Fleming has injected the greatest virtue possible in a motion picture—humanness. There is a distinct human feeling running through the entire film.

Double for Teddy
Frank Hopper was taken from his job as book agent to portray Roosevelt and he more than lived up to expectations.

With the aid of a little make-up, Hopper is almost an exact double of the famous president. He also is a pretty fair actor. Hopper was willing, and under Fleming's masterful direction he has given a good portrayal of the great Teddy.

The others who figure most prominently are Charles Farrell and Charles Mack. At times the picture literally rests upon their shoulders. Noah Beery and George Bancroft are excellent comedy relief but the film is not dependent upon them.

Mack's name has been known in cinema circles for some years. He started as a protegee of the one and only D. W. Griffith. Farrell's first role of any importance was in "Old Ironsides." He was good in it but it is this more recent picture that has made him a star.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Fanchon and Marco's spectacular Aerial Ballet "Idea," which heralds a new series of marvelous stage presentations, opens at the West Coast-Walker theater Sunday.

A bevy of 20 beautiful girls, selected from a group of hundreds of finished aerial artists, are presented in a magnificent scene which holds an audience breathless with the daring originality of the number as produced by Fanchon and Marco. The sensational production shows the beauties 60 feet above the footlights, covering the entire area of a mammoth curtain.

This breath-taking scene in the Aerial Ballet "Idea," however, is but one of many gorgeous scenes of the act which is lavishly produced to furnish a brilliant variety of entertainment, which includes snappy song hits and plaintive ballad numbers, many unusual dances which hold with their fascinating rhythm and colorful cadences, the beauties on the stage, in many novel and beautiful costume creations, dazzle with perfect drill-work and amaze with many eccentric novelties in the way of ensemble dances delightfully bright and alluring.

For the setting of the Aerial

Ballet "Idea" Fanchon and Marco have created a magnificent stage set, on which many colored lights from the motif which duplicates the costumes worn by the beauties in their famous "Yankee Rose" number.

On the screen will be "The Wrong Mr. Wright," one of the year's funniest comedies which features Enid Bennett, Jean Hersholt, Walter Hiers and Dorothy Devore. "The Wrong Mr. Wright" was adapted for the screen from the stage play of the same name, declared by critics to be one of the laughtiest farces ever to hit Broadway.

WHY?

It is only natural that you would wonder why we can make this outstandingly amazing offer.
And yet the answer is plain. The manufacturers of Marivonne Toilet Requisites are confident that once the women of Santa Ana use Marivonne, they will always use it. It is the permanent users that are sought for every article, and Maison Marivonne proceeds on the theory that the only effective way to obtain them is to first have them used in the home. This week's offer to Santa Ana women is part of a gigantic advertising campaign that is gaining for Marivonne a tremendous following. Be sure to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity at the White Cross Drug Store this week. It is an opportunity that is rarely offered to women in any community.

LOS ANGELES SUFFERS LOSS

Expect March Records Will Come Nearer to High
Mark of Early Months

Registering an increase of 14 per cent in new car sales for February of this year, as compared with February, 1926, Orange county has jumped from eighth to sixth position in the list of 15 counties in the state leading in auto sales, according to the Motor Registration News of Oakland.

Registration records compiled by the publication disclose that last month dealers in the county sold 368 vehicles, as compared with 321 in the same month of last year.

The News points out that seven of the leading counties made gains and that eight are credited with losses. Los Angeles county showed a loss of 24 per cent, while San Francisco registered a gain of nine per cent. Other counties making gains were San Diego, Fresno, Alameda, Santa Clara, San Bernardino, Sacramento, Riverside, Imperial, Tulare and Contra Costa.

Falls Behind January
Commenting on points disclosed by compilation of registration data, the publication says:

"February of 1927 not only came through with a shortage as compared with February, 1926, but it also fell behind January sales of this year.

"However, the March records are beginning to shape themselves properly and are coming in regularly, and by the volume it looks as though March may have a little different story to tell. We must not forget, however, that March of 1926 was a banner month of that year, so the sales volume attained in March, 1927, will have to be enormous in order to register an increase. The sales volume attained a year ago in total sales of passenger cars for the month of March was close to 22,000 sales.

"Dropping back to the story that the registrations tell us for the month of February, we find that with total sales of both pas-

CARELESSNESS OF MOTORISTS IN THROWING AWAY LIGHTED MATCHES AND BURNING CIGARET STUBS IS BLAMED FOR STARTING GREATEST NUMBER OF FOREST FIRES

With the approach of the summer season, warning to motorists to be careful when in the mountains again is in order. According to government agencies, last year was one of the worst forest fire years in the history of the west. In California, Washington and Oregon, the government spent in excess of half a million dollars for fire suppression. Pointing out that the sylvan beauty of the western slopes is menaced by a handful of careless smokers and neglectful motor campers, B. J. MacMullen, distributor here for the Chevrolet, today cited as a warning the devastating fire in the Santa Ana mountains last November, and made an appeal to motorists and campers to exercise the greatest care when camping or touring through mountain districts.

FINANCING OF STATE ROADS IS EXPLAINED IN STATEMENT

Breed Bill Providing Boost
In Gasoline Tax Expected
To Raise $11,000,000

WOULD SPEND THAT ON CONSTRUCTION

Highway Building Fund and Maintenance Money Depends Upon Gas Bought

There seems to be a good deal of confusion in people's minds about state highway revenues. Therefore, a brief statement concerning them may be of interest.

It has been repeatedly stated that the Breed bill providing for an increase of the gasoline tax from two cents to three cents, would raise about $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 annually for new highway construction. That is, the one-cent increase will raise that much, and that sum only will be available for new construction, the revenue from the other two cents gasoline tax being, in the future as in the past, reserved by law for maintenance and reconstruction work.

Of course the revenues for both new construction and for maintenance and reconstruction will increase in the exact proportion of the increase in the use of gasoline, and the probable ratio of future increase is indicated by the ratio of increase of the past.

The gasoline tax of two cents per gallon went into effect Sept. 30, 1923, and up to Sept. 30, 1926, (three full years) the total net apportionment, after all rebates were paid, amounts to $42,000,000 in round figures, half of which was apportioned to the counties and half reserved for the state. This gasoline tax averaged $9.92 per car for the first year, $10.34 per car for the second year and $10.93 per car for the third year.

The average for the three years is $14,000,000 per annum; and the increase is indicated by the fact that for the year ending Sept. 30, 1926, the total apportionment for gasoline tax amounted to $16,055,000.

In addition to the revenues derived from the two cents gasoline tax, all revenues from motor vehicle licenses are also reserved by law for maintenance and reconstruction.

The net apportionment of motor vehicle licenses from 1914 to 1926, inclusive, amount in round figures to $63,000,000, half of which is reserved for the State Highway commission's use and the other half apportioned to the various counties of the state on the basis of the number of registered motor vehicles in each county.

This shows an average net apportionment for the 12 years of $5,250,000 per annum.

The net apportionment of motor vehicle licenses for the year 1926, after all expenses of the motor vehicle division were paid, was $7,442,829.11. Thus you see how rapidly the revenue from this source has increased—especially when you take into consideration the fact that during most of the years preceding 1926 the fees for the motor vehicle licenses were very much higher than they are at the present.

COUNTY FORGES TO FRONT WITH TOURIST RUSH

With the listing of its Orange headquarters as a branch office by the Automobile Club of Southern California, it is pointed out by motorists that this county is forging to the front in attracting tourist travel and in the use of motor vehicles in its rapid development. Branch offices of the club for some time have been maintained at Anaheim, Fullerton and Santa Ana. As the big motoring organization is an accurate index of visiting motorists and locally owned cars, it appears obvious that Orange county is maintaining its stride in development.

There are two members of the advisory board of the club in this county, D. Eymann Huff, of Orange.

NEW STUDEBAKERS HAVE HIGH SPEED

That any stock Studebaker big six Chancellor or Brougham model will do better than 70 honest miles per hour, is the assertion of Harry D. Riley, local Studebaker distributor, following the 60 minute demonstration last week by Harry Hartz, national speedway champion.

In this test, using a stock Chancellor—the Victoria model for four—Hartz rolled up exactly 73.3 measured miles on the board bowl at Culver City. Previously, this same model on a half mile straight-away had averaged 73 miles per hour, while a competitive make of car whose speedometer was registering 75 miles per hour, was actually clocked at an average of little better than 65, observers and timers announced.

"That is what we mean by an honest 70," was the comment of Harry D. Riley, Studebaker dealer.

"Everyone that is really motor-wise knows that speedometers vary—that even those tested and checked for accuracy will prove unreliable, especially at high speeds. Hence it behooves the motorist who really wants to know whether his car be fast or not, to have his speed clocked by accurate stop-watches or electrical timing devices over measured distances."

PLAN WIDENING OF ROAD LINK TO FULLERTON

In accordance with agreements reached by the board of supervisors and the state highway commission, the county highway department will at once start the work of procuring additional rights of way for widening the state highway between the city limits of Fullerton and Anaheim.

It is proposed to increase the width from 66 feet to 80 feet and to put down a new pavement, 56 feet wide from curb to curb.

It is estimated by commission engineers that the cost of the improvement will approximate $86,500 for the 4300 feet distance between the two city limits.

It is understood that the commission will bear 50 per cent of the cost and that an assessment district will be created to take care of the balance of the expense, less whatever amount the county may appropriate to assist in the work. The county, according to reports, is bearing approximately 25 per cent of the cost of widening work now in progress at Tustin.

Santa Ana Chevrolet Dealer Points Out Appalling Extent of Blazes

The flicked cigarette stub, the smoldering ember, the careless gesture last year reduced more than 200,000 acres of western woodlands to fields of blackened stumps, according to B. J. MacMullen, Santa Ana distributor for the Chevrolet. He added that man's thoughtlessness was responsible for more than 70 per cent of the forest fires that caused this destruction.

"In addition to wiping out the sylvan splendor of the mountain regions, timber conflagrations necessitated government expenditures of more than half a million for fire suppression on the Pacific slope," MacMullen said. He added that it was estimated that private interests spent in excess of a million dollars in fire-fighting.

Citing conditions now obtaining in the area burned over in the Santa Ana mountains by the forest fire of last November, the dealer said that the motor camper is spoiling his own game.

"Blackened Area Repressive
"Certainly there is no pleasure in traveling through devastated areas," MacMullen commented. "There is nothing about the desolation of a burned-over tract to lure campers, and to be pressed into fire-fighting service is enough to blight any outing."

"A fire can affect a city 300 miles distant by disturbing power forces, thereby interrupting lighting systems."

"The watershed element is also far-reaching. When underbrush and vegetation which hold the rain and snow, are burned away a water shortage in the valleys below is the result. In burned-over areas the water runs down the slopes to waste instead of being held to sink into the ground as a replenisher of lakes, streams, springs and other means of water supply."

"Prohibiting of smoking in national forests is already in effect in some localities. There is every indication that a no-smoking law will soon prevail in all the huge federal parks."

May Close Wooded Sections
"Closure of wooded land to the public will be the next step. Such ordinances are already in force in some parts of the west."

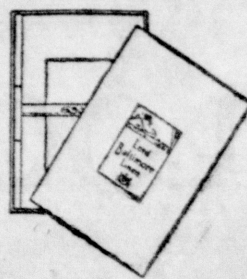

"A proposition to close all forests at the opening of the general hunting season is being considered. This can be modified by making certain demands upon hunters entering the tree covered districts."

"Last September every sportsman going into the Shasta forest was required to equip himself with axe and shovel and to sign an agreement to fight fires originating during his sojourn there. Only four small burns occurred in this region that month."

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

How many main bearings in your motor car? Nash recommends 7

Because for the finest and smoothest performance results, you need 7, rather than 3 or 4.

Obviously, 3 or 4 supports for a crankshaft cannot give it the rigidity and smoothness of 7. That is why Nash—with customary engineering progressiveness—has developed the 7-bearing motor for all Nash models.

The 7 bearings of Nash achieve power-smoothness and quietness, and achieve it, moreover, with no sacrifice of acceleration. In fact, the proper support of the crankshaft decidedly improves the energy and aggressiveness of the car.

Here is another fact to remember about the 7 bearings of Nash: They have more bearing surface, by actual measurement, than any 6-cylinder engine of similar size and price, no matter how many bearings it has. (Actually 20 square inches more than leading cars with fewer bearings.)

When you buy your 1927 motor car be sure to ask: "How many main bearings?" And for better results choose the car that has 7. Nash offers you this performance-advantage in every single model, no matter which one of the 23 Nash models you choose.

and J. Charles Thamer, of Fullerton. That the motoring development in this section has been rapid and is improved is pointed out by Huff in calling attention to the big motoring season that is indicated.

"Motorists are a big factor in our economic life," he declared. "Few people realize the proportions that organized motoring has attained. For instance, the branch office expenses of the Automobile Club of Southern California in this county aggregate $50,000 a year. The club paid more than $80,000 in insurance claims in Orange county during 1926. It has an insurance reserve investment in Orange county bonds of nearly $200,000. There are more than 50,000 members of the organization in this county, and everyone is familiar with the vast number of signs that have been erected over its highways by the club, without expense to us, and of the efficient highway patrol service and emergency road service that has been extended to motorists."

"While these figures are in cold dollars and cents and are very tangible, the club is an important asset to the county in other ways. I refer particularly to its planning and routing of trips for eastern motorists and the service extended to them after they reach the state. Approximately 8,000,000 maps were distributed by the club during last year. A large proportion of these went east in answer to inquiries from motorists contemplating a visit to Southern California this summer. We all know the cash value of the motor tourist, and have learned that many of those who come to view, remain permanently with us to make their homes. To my mind this is one of the greatest services that any community might have."

"The value of the Automobile Club of Southern California to the state has long been recognized in this respect. Its total membership of 123,000 motorists not only give it prestige and a commanding position, but enables it to exploit Southern California in the most efficient manner."

CHEVROLET DEALER PROMOTES M'CRAIN

With the expansion of his business reaching the point where he must give his personal attention to details other than sales, B. J. MacMullen, Chevrolet dealer, today announced appointment of J. W. McCain as sales manager.

McCain has been with the local sales organization for a year, during which period he demonstrated qualifications of the managerial type that attracted the attention of his employer, with the result that he was placed at the head of a department created to give his energies an outlet.

Before coming to Santa Ana to become identified with the MacMullen organization, McCain was with the McMillan Petroleum Products company at Long Beach.

CITY EMPLOYEES TO HOLD OUTING

Members of the office force of the city engineer and members of the city council and their families will picnic at San Juan Hot Springs tomorrow, the event coming as the first outing of the city group for the spring and summer months.

No set program has been arranged for the outing, but it was anticipated today that swimming and a baseball game would offer the principal features of special entertainment—and it was conceded that the ball game would be a real entertainment of comedy character.

DeWitt Dudley, assistant to Engineer Clyde Jenkins, has been assigned the responsibility of preparing barbecue lunch for the dinner and it is said that he has had no little experience in this line of endeavor.

DOCTOR'S AUTO IS REPORTED STOLEN

Thieves broke into the garage of Dr. J. W. Hancock, 1101 North Ross street, yesterday afternoon, and stole his automobile, according to a report made to police, who today are seeking the missing machine.

A radio set was in the machine at the time it was taken, it was reported. Tony Conal, Santa Ana, reported to police last night that his machine was stolen from near Fourth and French streets last night. Several articles of clothing were in the machine at the time, he reported.

An abandoned machine, registered to R. E. Johnson, 134 South Alta Vista boulevard, Los Angeles, was found by police officers here yesterday, parked near Fifth and Birch streets. It was taken to the city hall, where it is being held for the owner.

senger and commercial cars, we are 2683 sales shy of last year's record, when 16,533 new vehicles were registered by their owners. The shortage this last February, in comparison with a year ago in percentage, amounts to 16 per cent.

Northern California's loss is not nearly so great as that of Southern California, for we find in the analyzing of the figures that Northern California's shortage amounted to 16.5 per cent, while that of Southern California amounts to 21 per cent.

"This condition in February is the absolute opposite to the condition which existed in the January sales, for in January the north was forced to take the larger loss, while Southern California fared very well."

"The number of sales shortage for the north amounted to 349, while in the south—part of the state it amounted to 2541. The volume reached in northern California for the month just closed was 8467 in comparison to 8748 a year ago, and in Southern California the volume reached in the month just closed was 8474 in comparison to 10,155 a year ago."

"So much for the figures in which both passenger and commercial cars have been combined. We will view for the present just passenger car sales in a like manner."

"The state totals of passenger cars only is credited with the same percentage decrease as the state total of both passenger and commercial cars, that of 16 per cent. The state totals for February of this year show a total of 12,749, which is a shortage of 2495 over the February, 1926, total, which amounted to 15,244."

"When a division of the state is made into the northern and southern parts, we find the north again faring the better with only a six per cent decrease, while the southern half of the state is listed with a 21 per cent drop."

"The north fell shy some 331 sales when the totals of February, 1926, which were 5251 are compared with the total of February, 1927, which amounted to 4920."

"Southern California's volume for February of this year amounted to 7829, which was 2164 short of February, 1926 total, which reached the volume of 9993."

"The commercial cars, when taken separately, fared a little better than the passenger car industry in that their state decrease was 14 per cent. The state totals show that 1131 new commercial vehicles were registered in February of this year, while 1319 were registered in the same month of a year ago. This is a sales shortage of 188 vehicles."

"Northern California is again credited with the smallest decrease when the sales of February, 1927, which are 486, are compared with the totals of February, 1926, which amounted to 497. We find a shortage of only 11 cars or 2 per cent."

"Southern California holds its same percentage decrease throughout, namely, that of 21 per cent. The shortage in sales for Southern California amounted to 177, for the figures show that in February of this year a total of 645 vehicles were registered, while in February of last year the volume of 822 was reached."

NEW MARCEL WAVE METHOD INVENTED

For some time women have been concerned over the theory advanced that they are facing baldness as the result of heated curling irons on the hair. Baldness is nothing pleasant to look forward to, yet women were not willing to surrender the attractively groomed head of waves. "There must be a method provided," they reasoned, "to keep the natural oil in the hair and yet provide for the beautiful wave."

The ingenuity of woman set to work to solve the problem and every inventive thought expressed was given careful consideration, and many methods originated were viewed with interest. Today there is an entirely new idea being introduced—a simple curler you might say—a class by itself, which will give the natural marcel wave to the hair, without adding heat to produce it.

Next week, this entirely new method will be demonstrated in Santa Ana, and women will have an opportunity to learn how to obtain a beautiful marcel wave without harm to the hair.

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, April 2.—The glee clubs of the Tustin high school together with the faculty of the music department will be the guests tonight of three Laguna Beach organizations, the Community club, the Woman's club and the Parent-Teacher association. A reception in the Community clubhouse will follow a program by the glee clubs in the same place. Laguna Beach high school students and their parents will see that the glee clubs have a good time.

A "backward party" was given last night at the Community club by Miss Zelda Handy for about 40 boys and girls. A card party at the Woman's club Friday evening had as hostesses, Mrs. C. C. Cravath and Mrs. Cayan B. Hall. The affair was for the benefit of the lot fund and was the first card party given in the club house this year.

The Comfortable club was entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Whitsett. Mrs. Willard Wilson Brown substituted for Mrs. Hiel G. Rider. This club meets every two weeks.

FIELD WORKER OF RED CROSS TO VISIT HERE

Miss Edith Chaffee, Red Cross field representative for southern California, will arrive in Santa Ana on April 11 on a visit to the local Red Cross chapter. She will remain until the 14.

Although she has been with the American Red Cross for a number of years, Miss Chaffee is new to the southern California territory, having just been appointed field representative to succeed Miss Neil Holsinger. Miss Chaffee formerly visited chapters in northern California, and prior to that covered a large territory in Utah and Nevada. Miss Chaffee is an enrolled Red Cross nurse and her service dates from the war.

While in Santa Ana she will discuss with the local Red Cross officers matters of importance to the organization, and will plan with them for the further continuation of Red Cross activities in the community.

The officers of the local chapter are T. E. Stephenson, chairman; Mrs. J. H. Leebick, executive secretary and H. L. Hanson, treasurer.

BLOOMING FIELDS OF POPPIES LINE ROUTE TO JOSHUA FOREST

Golden fields of California poppies along the desert roads to a forest of giant Joshua trees now make this day's round trip via Lancaster and the Ridge Route especially attractive, reports the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

MOTORISTS LIKE NEW PAIGE EIGHT

Motorists in regions where hills are hills will be especially enthusiastic users of the newly developed four-speed transmission with two high gear drives, introduced by the Paige eight, according to Jack Mabey, Paige dealer here.

"The four-speed trend, which is bound to follow the introduction of the new transmission by the Paige," Mabey said, "will work an extraordinary improvement in driving under any conditions."

"Where roads are not unusually steep, the high-gear direct drive provides a wide range of speed but holds down the engine to a speed much lower than in a three-speed car. A car with a three-speed transmission must be designed to operate well on any grade, with the consequence that it is not at its best on long stretches of level going. The four-speed improvement greatly increases smoothness, economy, and silence by reducing the speed of the engine."

Body builders are improving the seating of the automobile, with better arrangement of springs for the greater comfort of the passengers.

But the springs below the body, and the tires, remain the essential foundations of comfortable riding. Attention must be given them regularly if touring is to be easy and enjoyable.

An efficient shock absorber, the tires depend on the amount of air pressure in them. It was for their high shock-absorbing qualities that balloon tires were introduced.

The principle of balloons is not the resiliency of their thin walls, as opposed to the stiffer fabric walls of the former type of tires. It's the lower air pressure that makes this type of tire the better shock absorber.

It has been discovered, however, that the extremely low air pressure of 22 pounds average, as first advised for balloons, is too low for efficient riding. It wore down the tires too soon. Now as high as 35 pounds pressure is suggested for comfortable riding with balloons.

If high pressure tires are used on your car, air pressure may be reduced for comfortable riding only at the cost of quicker wear on the casings.

Spring make good shock absorbers, provided they are kept well lubricated. Otherwise, rust between the leaves will cause them to stick and then suddenly snap apart, causing a jerky motion that's far from comfortable.

Graphite grease is the best lubricant for springs. This should be forced between the leaves by means of a thin blade or screw driver. The leaves may be pried apart easily when the car is jacked up so that the weight of the body and axle will pull the leaves apart. The jack, for this purpose, should be put under the spring pad or frame.

The grease will wear out soon, but the graphite will remain as a good lubricant between the moving parts. Oil may be applied to the sides of the springs at intervals. The movement of the leaves will work this oil between them and keep them free from rust.

Dry, rusty, neglected springs are

With long, distorted arms far stretched in suppliant invitation, the giant "praying trees" of the Joshua forest in the northwestern end of Antelope valley are making a special plea to pleasure-bound motorists. These strange, gnarled patriarchs are pointing out the fact that spring is the ideal season for traveling on the desert, and they further explain that vast fields of large, deep golden poppies and other wild flowers are now beautifying the roads along the way.

The citizens of Antelope valley are now holding a poppy week in celebration of "California's flower," blooming in great profusion there. Several thousand acres of poppies are to be found a short distance from Lancaster, south of Del Sur, it is reported by representatives of the Automobile Club of Southern California who have just returned from the section. Ample rains early this season are making the poppies and other flowers larger and more numerous than for many years.

With the glowing poppies and other blossoms greatly enhancing the attractiveness of the Joshua forest, smooth roads make the area easily available. The pavement of San Fernando road and Mint canyon, or the route via Los Angeles county playground to Lancaster, with the wide graded gravel road extending to Fairmont and the yuccas and on to the Ridge route. Pine canyon may be followed to the paved Ridge highway, which will lead back to the starting place.

Mormon emigrants named the Joshua trees, which appear to be forever lifting their shaggy arms in supplication to the sun. By moonlight, or at sunset, these weird desert plants assume grotesque shapes. One may be a caricature of a suburbanite with bundles under his arm running for a train; another will be a pointing witch. These growths were once known as cabbage trees, so named by members of the Manly party who trekked a weary way across Death valley and the mountains to this "land of gold" in 1849.

The Joshuas, member of the lily family, will bear beautiful blooms of white later in the spring. The swelling buds of the Joshua tree were formerly gathered by the Indians, according to legend, who roasted them over the coals of desert campfires. The buds contain a high content of sugar and were eaten hot or cold after roasting. Indian children of the many bands that formerly lived in this section knew that early spring was "candy time," the days of roasted Joshua buds, it is said.

Motorists touring the Joshua forest and the poppies of Antelope valley this week will find posters placed by Lancaster citizens, pointing the way to the poppy fields, and also the signs of the Automobile Club of Southern California giving directions and distances to communities. The way to go is via Lancaster or the Ridge route, turning southwest from the Ridge at either the first or second turn beyond Sandberg's. The first is a good liable to break easily when the car goes over a rough road. It is on the rebound, after the springs have been compressed under the weight of the car, that a leaf may snap.

Therefore, shock absorbers generally are designed to check this upward rebound. Both pneumatic and hydraulic shock absorbers cushion the downward motion by the compression, and then check the rebound by the slow expansion of the air or oil, due to the almost total exclusion of the outer air in the first place, and to the viscosity of the oil in the second.

Well-kept springs, properly inflated tires, application of shock absorbers will bring the comfort desired in motoring. But a word of caution:

Don't over-grease the springs, or they'll become too lively and bounce the car out of control of the shock absorbers.

This is especially important in the case of light cars.

roadbed through a gray sage and timbered area and leads to Pine canyon. A turn to the left is made a short way beyond Oakgrove, continuing through Oakgrove canyon to the Neenach road, and a road turning right from Neenach leads to the yucca trees.

OVERLAND Whippet

JUDGE the roominess of the Whippet from the inside. Step through the wide door openings into the surprisingly large interior. There is more leg room, front and rear, than you'll find in any other light car.

Through Engineering leadership the Whippet is equipped with modern advantages which only high-priced cars have had before.

SUPERIOR SAFETY—the Whippet is the only light car that nationally provides the necessary safety of 4-wheel brakes—that offers the vital protection of narrow, clear vision front corner posts.

SUPERIOR ECONOMY—with its amazing frugality in consumption of gas and oil the Whippet gives you a new idea of driving economy. Thousands of enthusiastic owners know that it costs less to drive a Whippet than any other light car.

Coast-to-coast averaging 43.28 miles per gallon. Omaha to New York at less than a penny a mile for gas.

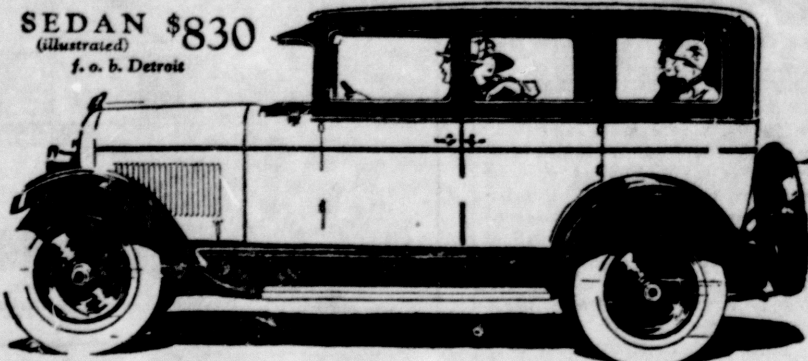

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE—55 miles an hour in safety and comfort. 5 to 30 miles an hour in 13 seconds. Speed that thrills you to the finger tips. Pickup that makes you the master of any traffic situation.

SUPERIOR BEAUTY—beauty that speaks for itself. The smart-looking, most modernly designed light car on the road today. With long, low, graceful lines.

Interesting News of the Day Told In Pictures

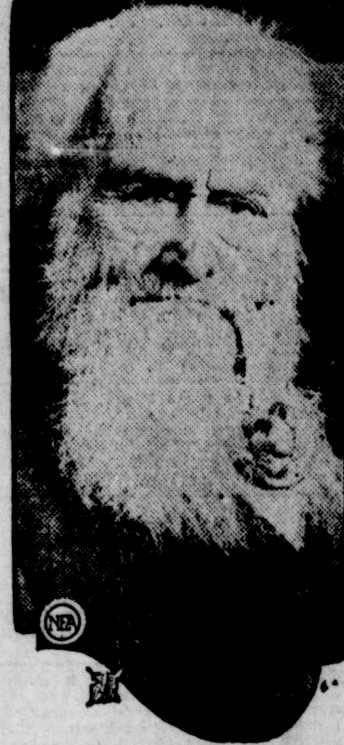

Meet Miss Sumiko Kurishima, the Mary Pickford of Japan. Although she is the idol of Japanese movie fans, the girl star is paid only $500 a week.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the immortal T. R., returns to New York on the S. S. Pan America after an extensive tour of South America.

Isn't she one of the loveliest ladies you ever saw? Her name is Bill Ogilvie, of the University of Wisconsin. Bill's athletic record shouts that he's all man, although in this role, as a female lead in the Haresfoot Club's play, "Meet the Prince," he's most ladylike.

When Admirals Sims, Eberle and other illustrious high commanders of the American navy of this decade were in their swaddling clothes, Charles A. Schetky, here shown with his pet pipe, was sailing the seven seas with a captain's braid on his sleeve. Captain Schetky is not only the oldest living American naval officer—his 100 years make him also the oldest Mason. He's a member of Lodge No. 2, Philadelphia.

Tina Ghirardi and her brother, Pucci, have come to America to popularize the Zamba, an adaptation of the Portuguese national dance, which is said to have gained great favor in Paris. And if Tina and her looks can't make it one of the Charleston's chief competitors here it must be a poor pastime indeed. In this picture she's wearing a bracelet and 700-year-old shawl given her by Queen Victoria of Spain in recognition of her terpsichorean skill.

"A big family keeps you young," says Mrs. Harry Horsley, 37, of Indianapolis, Ind., mother of 18 children, 13 of whom are living. Mrs. Horsley is shown holding twin girls, the latest additions to her family. They're Margery (left) and Mildred. Mrs. Horsley married at 14.

Mabel Murphy of Columbus, O., is being hailed as one of the coloratura soprano "discoveries" of the day. After her first appearance, at a Casa Italiana concert in New York, she was signed on a long-term contract by the management of Tetrazzini's coming European tour.

French sculptors and artists have decreed that Mademoiselle Soubiran is the queen of all the models of France. Their verdict was based on a consideration of intelligence and beauty of face and figure.

Captain Hawthorne C. Gray fell more than five miles with his balloon and only sprained his ankle. The bag hit telephone wires near Ashley, Ill., before hitting the ground. Captain Gray was trying for an altitude record.

At 12 years of age, Alice Grotte is the chief heir to an estate of $125,000 left by her father, Charles Grotte, Omaha real estate man. Alice lives with her mother in Milwaukee.

Here is the first photo ever taken of Mr. and Mrs. Monte Blue with their daughter, Barbara Ann. The picture was taken just after Monte came off the "set" after making a scene for a picture.

The chef doesn't have to ring the dinner bell for these residents of the London zoological gardens. A young penguin is shown taking the nourishment that mother so kindly provides.

His own vote, cast two minutes before the close of the polls, returned Mayor Charles Fleming of Spokane, Wash., to office, 11,968 to 11,967 in the election just concluded there.

Back in the pre-war days Louisiana was famous for its lotteries and mint juleps. Now it's famous for its pretty girls. Here's the latest bit of justification for that fame. She's Miss Vida Pelayo of Baton Rouge, acclaimed the most charming co-ed at Louisiana State University.

John Conroy uses his head for other than decorative purposes. Although he's only 14, when he saw two men backing out of a New York store the other day holding pistols menacingly before them, John followed, keeping up with their automobile by hitching on the back of another. They stopped, he called a cop and the men were arrested. It is alleged they had just committed a hold-up when John came along.

Miss Elizabeth Albright, of New York, looking at you here as demurely, was the reigning sovereign during Miami's recent Baby Week, one of the principal events of the season at the southern winter resort. Her title was "Queen Biscaya XXXI."

George Campbell Carson, recently court winner of a $20,000,000 patent suit over a copper ore reduction process, was supposedly "woman-proof" until he met Mrs. Hersee M. Gross, wealthy widow of Beverly Hills, Calif. Here they are, honeymooning in San Francisco before departing for her southern California home to live.

When an ardent suitor in Bombay wins the lady of his choice he gives her a ring—in the nose.

Billy Evans Says

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 2.—Detroit for many reasons, should prove the most interesting club in the American league this summer.

At this writing, I feel safe in predicting that the Tigers will prove to be the dark horse of the Junior derby.

The inferiority complex removed, it will be up to the players to prove the oft-repeated assertion, that the Tigers were capable of playing better baseball.

"You just can't keep this ball club out of first division." That is the consensus of the Detroit players from rookies to stars.

Strangely enough, you hear no pennant boasts in the Tiger camp, but over and over again you hear repeated the belief that Detroit belongs in the first division.

"Give us any kind of pitching and we will be in there fighting from the drop of the flag, always somewhere within the hailing distance of first place."

Think They Have Chance

In other words, the Tigers believe they have a chance. It is a long accepted truth in baseball that a club capable of sticking in the first division must always be reckoned as a contender.

Why? Knowing the club is virtually the same aggregation that finished sixth last year, it is only natural to be inquisitive.

A decidedly different spirit is the outstanding feature of the Tiger's play, the dominant reason why the team should rank much higher in the race than last season.

There seems to be an abnormal desire on the part of the athletes to live up to the opinion of the experts, who for years have been rating the same Detroit club a pennant contender, only to have the players annually fail them.

George Moriarty is the second reason why the Tigers should show much improvement. Perhaps it would be more correct to rate him No. 1, since his coming has been directly responsible for the change in spirit.

Strong For New Manager

To even the casual spectator, it is apparent the players are strong for their new manager. To the many experts who have been touring these training camps for years, the change in the mental attitude of the players is all the more apparent.

Second Baseman Marty McManus completes the trio of reasons why the Tigers are going to be plenty troublesome to the other seven clubs.

No ball club can hope to perfect a well oiled infield with constant shifts at the keystone position, second base. For years that has been a flaw in the Tiger defense.

Marty McManus at second is going to make Shortstop Jackie Tavenner a much improved ball player and he was far removed from a star last season. McManus and Tavenner will figure in many a double play this summer. Double plays in a pinch win ball games.

Outfield Rates With Best

The Detroit outfield for several years has been one of the best in the majors. The acquisition of McManus has made Manager Moriarty equally satisfied with his infield.

Greater reserve strength will also be a factor. Catcher Shea of the Pacific Coast league who cost Own: Navin a fat sum—close to fifty grand—makes the Tigers' catching staff the best all-round combination in the majors.

In the infield Bernie De Viveiros, star of the Texas league last year, is a fine understudy for Tavenner; Charley Gehring, one of the best infield prospects in the majors, can play second or third, while Johnny Neun is a worthy aid to Lu Blue at first.

The pitching is certain to be better. All of which makes it seem as if the players knew their stuff, when they keep repeating:

"You just can't keep this ball club out of the first division."

Johnny Mostil To Arrive In Chicago

CHICAGO, April 2.—Johnny Mostil, star outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, who recently attempted suicide, will arrive in Chicago today and expects to have dental work done immediately. A run down condition from poor teeth is believed responsible for Mostil's attempted suicide.

The course of the Oxford-Cambridge varsity boat race on the Thames is four and a quarter miles in length, and the record time taken to cover it—put up by Oxford in 1911—is 18 minutes 29 seconds.

S. A. ATHLETES AFTER RECORDS AT RIVERSIDE

Two track records were expected to fall today through the effort of Santa Ana athletes competing in the annual Southern California Junior College conference track classic at Riverside in which more than 100 crack athletes were entered.

The two marks in danger were those in the quarter-mile and the shot put. Lon McIntire was touted to win the 440 yard dash in time better than 52.3 seconds, which is the record. Aubrey ("Tiny") Reinhardt was to battle it out with Bob Patton, of Riverside, for the honor of setting a new conference mark in the shot. Both have heaved the ball 40 feet, a mark better than the conference record.

Coach Harris expected to make a clean sweep in the 440 and points garnered in the event were counted on to swell the Santa Ana total by which it was hoped to place second to Pasadena, conference champion. The crack quartette of 440 yard runners representing the Dons included McIntire, Donald ("Squeek") Squires, Russell Kokx and Mark Martin.

Because of this strength in the quarter mile race, the local relay team, composed of the same sprinters, was doped to win handily in the baton race.

Greater reserve strength will also be a factor. Catcher Shea of the Pacific Coast league who cost Own: Navin a fat sum—close to fifty grand—makes the Tigers' catching staff the best all-round combination in the majors.

In the infield Bernie De Viveiros, star of the Texas league last year, is a fine understudy for Tavenner; Charley Gehring, one of the best infield prospects in the majors, can play second or third, while Johnny Neun is a worthy aid to Lu Blue at first.

The pitching is certain to be better. All of which makes it seem as if the players knew their stuff, when they keep repeating:

"You just can't keep this ball club out of the first division."

DETROIT BOASTS 800 POUNDS OF SLUGGING OUTFIELDERS

Detroit has 800 pounds of hard-hitting outfielders in Harry Heilmann, Heinie Manush, Bob Fothergill and Al Wingo.

You can't get around the slugging tendencies of the three regulars—Manush, Fothergill and Heilmann. They ranked among the first four leaders in swatting last season. Manush topping 'em all with a .387 percentage, while Heilmann and Fothergill tied with .367. They're fencebusters all, with Wingo just a mite below .300.

It is one of the heaviest outfielders in either league, taken any way you want to, and they are one of the big reasons why George Moriarty tells you to watch the Detroit Tigers spring a few surprises this summer.

Rodgers Team To Play White Kings

Joe Rodgers, doughty chief of the Republic Supply company baseball team, will lead his all-star ensemble against the strong White King Soap company aggregation, of Los Angeles, at Huntington Beach tomorrow.

Dave Salazar, noted semi-pro flinger, will work for the visitors, according to Rodgers.

The Huntington Beach team has won 22 of its last 24 games.

LOCAL NET PLAYERS TO MEET WHITTIER

A tennis match between the Santa Ana chamber of commerce tennis club and the Whittier Tennis club will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. on the courts at the Santa Ana high school.

Six singles and three doubles matches will be played.

First singles will be played by John Cress. George Preble will play second singles, Dick Ewert, third, and Emil Foust, fourth. Orville Schuchardt, fifth and Stewart McPherson, sixth. These same men will be teamed for the doubles play-offs.

PAOLINO WINS BUT FAILS TO DISPLAY CLASS

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, April 2.—Working like a pile driver pounding its way through mud, sand and granite, Paulino, the Basque strongman, almost forced himself into Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament in the garden last night when he won a 10-round decision from Tom Heenev, New Zealand heavyweight.

Paulino, in winning by a slight margin against an opponent who could not be classed by his performance in this country as a contender, did not show himself as a champion but he did supply reasons to believe that Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Jack Delaney or the others contending for the heavyweight championship could not knock him out in 10 rounds.

It was Paulino's invincibility against hard punching of Heenev for six rounds that proved him to have a stomach of steel and a jaw of iron.

The pitching staff with Barnes, McQuillan, Grimes, Greenfield, Fitzsimmons, Henry, Thomas, Bentley and others looked strong. Barnes, McQuillan and Grimes are first string regulars and what McGraw thought of Greenfield and Fitzsimmons was shown when he refused to trade either one of them in a straight swap for Adolpho Luque, Cincinnati pitcher, whom the Giants later offered to purchase for $15,000.

Things Begin to Happen

It was a great looking combination until things started to happen, and since things started to happen the Giants haven't an outfielder who is certain and the pitching staff is temporarily disorganized.

The worst blow came with the loss of Young, a great outfielder, and one of the most valuable players in baseball. It was followed by the refusal of Roush to report to the training camp which delayed by about five weeks the necessary experiment to find the right combination and train it.

The infield situation, a very involved one, is complicated by the business difficulties of Hornsby.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, says Hornsby cannot play with the Giants until he disposes of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. McGraw says Heydler has no ruler behind him for support and he will go to civil court about it.

Hornsby is caught in the middle and unless he has a change of heart he will remain there.

In addition to the Hornsby situation, Travis Jackson was operated on for appendicitis yesterday at Memphis, Tenn., and probably will be lost to the team for several weeks.

The pitching staff, with McQuillan and Grimes not in shape, is not so good.

The Giants may win the pennant regardless but they can't be started as favorites.

So delicate and so accurate is the electrical timing machine used in timing sporting contests that it can measure the time a bullet takes to pass from the chamber to the muzzle of a rifle but for the purposes of sport, one-tenth of a second is the smallest division in actual use.

Angels Take Only Coast League Game

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—The Angels made it two straight over Seattle with a 7 to 4 win. It was a slow game with numerous errors. Earl Hamilton, after allowing but five hits in seven innings eased up toward the last and let the Indians score three of their four runs. One of these was a home run by Purdy. Wally Hood, of the Angels, also hit for the circuit.

All other teams were washed out because of rains at Oakland, San Francisco and Sacramento. Prospect of all teams resuming hostilities today were slight, with the same diamonds wet from yesterday's soaking.

Clear weather prevailed today in all cities where games were scheduled, however, according to the weather bureau.

MCGRAW TEAM FAVORITE BUT HAS TROUBLES

NEW YORK, April 2.—With a great ambition to celebrate his silver jubilee year as manager of the New York Giants with another National league pennant, John McGraw set out during the winter season to organize a pennant winning combination even if it entailed wrecking his whole club and spending a fortune.

He proceeded a fair distance tearing down his old club and digging into the bottom layers of the bank roll when he disposed of George Kelly, Frank Frisch, Jimmy Ring and "Irish" Meusel and other less well known players for Rogers Hornsby, Eddie Roush, George Harper and "Burr" Grimes and if extra money wasn't involved in any of these deals some considerable money surely was put out for Al Devormer, "Bevo" Le Bourveau and a whole contingent of highly rated rookies.

After looking over what he had as a campaigner for the 1927 race, McGraw modestly accepted congratulations and did not protest against winter predictions that the Giants should be heavy favorites to win the championship.

Critics Concede Class

He had what smart critics and rival managers admitted was as good an infield as any in the league in Bill Terry, Hornsby, Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom.

The outfield, long a problem of the defense, looked like the real thing with Roush and Ross Young as the headliners and Harper, Le Bourveau, Tyson, Mueller and Ott for left field. There was so much outfield that experts figured McGraw would use some of it in a trade to strengthen what was considered to be a weakness behind the bat.

But McGraw said he was satisfied with Devormer, Hamby and Cummings and he proved it when he obtained Heinline from the Phillies and turned him over to the Brooklyn Robins.

The pitching staff with Barnes, McQuillan, Grimes, Greenfield, Fitzsimmons, Henry, Thomas, Bentley and others looked strong. Barnes, McQuillan and Grimes are first string regulars and what McGraw thought of Greenfield and Fitzsimmons was shown when he refused to trade either one of them in a straight swap for Adolpho Luque, Cincinnati pitcher, whom the Giants later offered to purchase for $15,000.

MANY CHANGES REPORTED DUE FOR NEXT YEAR

Rumor That Santa Ana May Quit Coast Loop at End Of Season Unconfirmed

Reports that the Santa Ana high school administration has frowned on further membership in the strong Coast Preparatory league and will recommend that the local institution withdraw at the termination of its present schedules to seek admittance in another circuit, probably an entirely new association, remained unconfirmed here today.

While it is no secret that the powers-that-be at Poly feel that the necessity for extensive traveling by local athletic groups is neither conducive to scholarship nor helpful to the student treasury, no statement has been issued officially to the effect that Santa Ana will ask the C. I. F.'s permission for withdrawal from the Coast league.

P.-T.A. CONCERT TICKETS ARE PUT ON SALE

Tickets for the remaining three events on the educational concert course, presented here by the Santa Ana City Federation of Parent-Teacher associations were placed on sale today in the Santa Ana book store, the White Cross drug store and Sam Stein's stationery store, according to an announcement by Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, president of the city federation.

The next concert will be given on the afternoon and evening of April 11, at which time the Zoellner String quartet, an internationally famous music ensemble, will make its appearance.

It will be followed by another concert, to be given April 21, featuring Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer-pianist.

The Smallman & Cappella choir is the last attraction, the organization being scheduled to appear here on May 13.

GOOD RECORD MADE BY TYPING STUDENT

O. S. Johnston, president of the Business Institute, is much elated over the accomplishment of Miss Alice Fiene, a student in his business college.

Miss Fiene increased her speed on the typewriter from 30 words per minute to 74 words after 30 days instruction under the direction of Miss Harriett Elder, member of the Business Institute faculty. Miss Fiene not only attained this speed but maintained it for a period of 15 minutes and turned in errorless copy.

Miss Fiene is a graduate of the Orange high school and resides at 246 North Grand avenue in that city.

The following pupils of the institute have been awarded gold medals for making a typing speed of 60 words per minute for 15 minutes: Mary McKelvey, Cornelia Bode, Iona Baer, Helen Howell, Grace Elder, Lydia Mohr, Viola Pride, Malinda Miller, Lucille Garrett, Esther Houchen, Grace Willis, Evelyn Erickson and Helen Schoneberg.

Many Medals On Major's Breast Lead to Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—If a "major" has 37 medals and a colonel but nine, federal officers have grounds for an investigation.

Dispatches received from Honolulu stated that federal officers were holding "Major" Charles A. Stanton and his 37 military decorations in the belief that the man had been impersonating an army officer and that the decorations might have been stolen. The major was arrested while at work in his tattooing parlor in Honolulu.

In San Francisco, Col. Charles E. Stanton, U. S. A., who earned all of his nine military medals, said the medals were safely stored in his trunk at home. He knew nothing of the Stanton in Honolulu, but said that the latter undoubtedly was a better man than he, for the simple reason that he had four times as many military decorations.

The colonel is a commissioner of the board of public works of San Francisco.

LETUCE FROM CAPISTRANO IS SHIPPED EAST

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, April 2.—The Santa Fe station is a busy scene as hundreds of crates of crisp lettuce are being sent to eastern markets.

Aaron Buchheim is the principal shipper, with small consignments coming in from the C. R. Brown ranch.

It was announced that three cars had gone forward during the first three days of the season, and that with favorable weather conditions for gathering, shipments would continue at the rate of a car a day until the close of the season.

Imperial valley lettuce is reported to be off the market now and those who are shipping at this time are receiving good prices.

San Juan Capistrano lettuce goes direct to Kansas City, the point of diversion on the Santa Fe. At Kansas City each car is diverted to the particular city whose market quotations are the most attractive.

At the present price lettuce brings $1200 to $1300 a car. Last year's local lettuce crop was practically nil, owing to dry weather during the growing season and torrential rains at harvest time.

Local growers will ship about 30 carloads this season, it is estimated.

NEWPORT POLICE OFFICER RESIGNS

NEWPORT BEACH, April 2.—Resignation of Virgil Swartz from the local police department was accepted yesterday by Chief of Police David L. Adams, it was announced today. Swartz's plans for the future were not made known. His successor probably will be chosen in the near future.

Swartz joined the force several months ago. He was especially popular with the children. He coached them carefully in safety rules and as a result, accidents were cut down, according to friends. When not on duty, Swartz invented new games for the youngsters.

Noted Butterfly Collector Leaves

FULLERTON, April 2.—The new children's library, adjoining the regular library at the corner of Wilshire and Pomona avenues, opened this morning and will remain open for inspection until 6 o'clock this evening.

Special exercises began this morning with a talk by James Willard Schultz, noted writer of juvenile books. He talked of his experiences among the Indians. Florence Eakman, children's poet, told stories during the afternoon.

Miss Campbell, the children's librarian, stated that the library is for children up to 15 years of age.

CORDAGE FIRM'S OUTPUT INCREASED

ORANGE, April 2.—The production of the Western Cordage company is being increased from 75,000 pounds per month to 130,000 pounds per month, according to Fred Peck, superintendent of the plant.

Since July, 1925, when the decision was reached to make the increase in production, the increase has been accomplished slowly until now, according to Peck. In March, the company put out 128,000 pounds. For April, the superintendent is figuring on the maximum production of 130,000 pounds.

In February, the production totaled 86,000 pounds with a delivery of 108,000 pounds, said Peck.

Among the large orders recently received and now being filled is one from Salt Lake City for 30,000 pounds of twine and 18,000 pounds of small rope. The entire order will be shipped in one car and will amount to approximately $11,000.

Orana Pet Shop To Be Enlarged

ORANA, April 2.—Improvements calculated to care for 800 fancy birds are to be installed soon by Roy Channes, pet dealer, of Orana. Shipments of rare birds being received at the Orana farm are being housed in crowded quarters until the new aviaries can be built. The new cages will be built in one unit.

Attractive fixtures and a lily pond will serve to lend an air of festivity to the new cages, according to Channes. The larger quarters for the birds is part of a program of enlargement of the entire plant.

$25,000 PAID FOR CORNER AT LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, April 2.—J. Walter Rankin has purchased the property at the junction of Forest and Park avenues with Coast boulevard, where his drug store is located. The deal was made by the Laguna Beach Realty company and the price was said to be $25,000.

The property has been owned for a number of years by Elmer E. Jahraus, pioneer realty broker, and is said to have sold at one time for $800.

According to Mr. Rankin more than $2000 will be spent on improvements. The property was purchased to protect the business which Mr. Rankin has built up.

The land is triangular in shape. It has a frontage of 56 feet on Coast boulevard, 115 feet on Park avenue, and is 85 feet from Street to street, at the base, and contains more than 3200 square feet, figuring in the neighborhood of $2 per square foot.

Eastern Women Guests at Laguna

LAGUNA BEACH, April 2.—Mrs. Mabel Dabney Salter and daughter, Miss Marjorie Salter, entertained Thursday evening at the Tea and Coffee in honor of four eastern women who have been spending several months here. Mrs. Frances Olmstead Abbott, Miss Marietta J. Tibbitts, Mrs. Anne L. Gregory and Miss Viola L. K. Taylor. This affair took the form of a musical followed by supper at a late hour with several of Laguna's most talented musicians in evidence. Miss Josephine Case, who has been playing the violin, Mrs. Floyd Case being at the piano. Mrs. Case also played for William Riddell, Mrs. Frederick J. Schwankovsky played the accompaniment for the songs of Miss Marjorie Salter. Miss Lolita Perine read "The Highwayman" by Edward Noyes, poet laureate of England. Mrs. Hal Forrest played excerpts from old operatic successes and old songs of the south.

In addition to Laguna folk who entertained, Mrs. Abbott did a Chinese number that was delightfully quaint and brought many laughs. She also had a sheaf of clever negro stories which she distributed through the evening.

Among those present were the four honor guests and Mrs. Eva G. Perine, Miss Lolita Perine, Miss Maud Peck, Miss Josephine Hills, Mrs. Floyd Case, Mrs. Frederick J. De St. V. Schwankovsky, Mrs. Hal Forrest and Mr. and Mrs. William Riddell.

EVENING SALUTATION

"A man can count uncounted gold,
And land and buildings tall;
But love is just to give away;
It can't be owned at all."

STUDY YOUR SAMPLE BALLOT

By the middle of next week all registered voters inside the city of Santa Ana will receive sample ballots showing the full list of nominees for city offices and all registered voters inside the Santa Ana high school district, which includes Delhi, Greenville, Costa Mesa and Newport Beach, will have a ballot showing the candidates for the board of education. While it appears that a good deal of attention is being paid to the campaign by quite a number of individuals, the indications today are that the majority of the voters are taking no great interest in the election. Perhaps a bit of urging at this time will cause some voters, who are now indifferent, to awaken to the importance of the election. This "urging" should be joined in by all voters who feel that they are informed concerning the situation.

Santa Ana city is to elect a full set of city officers. For two offices only, clerk and attorney, there are no contests. In relation to the other offices there are points of contrast and public interest that involve personalities, experience and ability. These points should be given close attention by the individual voter.

In our plan of election in California, the sample ballot plays an important part. With many voters, the arrival of the sample ballot through the mail is a signal for immediate inquiry. The sample ballot arouses a desire for information that may not have been aroused previously.

VERILY, TIMES DO CHANGE!

The socialistic doctrine of yesterday is the mainstay of tomorrow's conservatives; the man who was a radical in the 'nineties finds himself classed as a Tory in the year 1927.

It wasn't so long ago that a man could have the department of justice casting eyes upon him simply by suggesting, publicly, that our coal mines ought to be owned by the government.

But today? Well, the current issue of the Magazine of Wall Street has a lengthy article discussing that very question—and the article is highly sympathetic toward the proposal!

In this article it is stated that not only the coal miners, but the mine operators as well, would welcome government ownership of the coal mines.

And this in a publication by, of and for Wall Street!

The article goes into the coal mining situation thoroughly. It shows that during the twenty years between 1905 and 1925, there was only one year in which there were less than 25,000 coal miners on strike at one time or another. It asserts that these long-drawn-out disputes have resulted in victory for neither side and that neither side nowadays really expects victory.

In fact, the whole tone of this Wall Street article is favorable to the government ownership proposition.

It would take altogether too much space to discuss government ownership intelligently here. The point we are trying to make is this: our social and economic creeds are changing faster than we realized.

Twenty years ago—even ten years ago—Wall Street would have thrown up its hands in horror at a government ownership proposition for the soft coal industry. Now we find a Wall Street publication, representing Wall Street's inner circle, discussing the question without a tremor.

Verily, times do change!

WHY IS THE SENATE?

A timely and pertinent question, which will undoubtedly be asked by many citizens of the United States during the next few months, is that propounded by the caption of this article.

The treasury of the United States is overflowing with money. Nevertheless announcement has been made by the commissioner of pensions that after the April 4th pension checks go out there will be no further pension payments until July 4th.

This means that the monthly payments to all military pensioners of all classes and of all wars, including the blind and otherwise disabled Civil war veterans who are receiving the maximum of $90 per month, will be suspended for a period of ninety days, because of the failure of the deficiency appropriation bill, which was blocked in the senate on the last day of the session by the objection of Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts. In July the pensioners then living will receive three months payment in one.

The administration was fully appreciative of the very real hardship which delays in the payments will impose on the round half million persons on the pension rolls, and considered all sorts of expedients to avoid it after congress adjourned without providing the necessary money. There proved to be insurmountable legal barriers standing in the way. The commissioner of pensions, in his statement, pointed out also that at present the pensioners are dying at the rate of 4000 per month, which means that approximately 12,000 persons will die in the three months interval without the benefit of the pension due them.

Nor is this all the "confusion worse confounded" wrought by the most recent session of that great law making body, the senate of the United States.

The federal courts, throughout the country, will not be able to function this summer and fall because the United States senate did not have time to enact the legislation required to provide the necessary finances.

Why is the senate of United States? Why, indeed?

A MUCH NEEDED REFORM

The New York legislature has just defeated a proposed law that would have allowed public prosecutors, in criminal trials, to comment on the failure of the defendant to testify in his own behalf.

To our notion, there is a bill that should have passed, not only in New York but in all other states.

For the life of us we can't understand why an innocent man should ever be reluctant to take the stand when on trial. The fact that prosecutors are unable to use a defendant's refusal to do so as an argument to prove his guilt is, we believe, one of the things that makes the general public deeply suspicious of criminal law.

Why a Million Dollars?

Riverside Press

Los Angeles wants to have the Olympic games in that city in 1932 and that is a laudable ambition. In order to finance the proposition, however, the people of that city are proposing that the state be asked to vote bonds for $1,000,000; and that move is not so laudable.

The games would advertise Los Angeles extensively and would bring to that city a large number of athletes who would train for the event; then of course great crowds would gather in the city to witness the contests from day to day. Los Angeles would benefit greatly but it is not easy to see why the state should pay the bills.

Even as near as Riverside is to Los Angeles this city would derive no particular benefit from the games; and if that is true, the interest of San Diego, Fresno, Sacramento, San Francisco and other cities farther away would be still more remote.

"The voters of the state at the last election approved a bond issue for $1,250,000 for a state building in Los Angeles and a bond issue for $3,000,000 for buildings for the state university in that city. Those amounts, however, are for permanent improvements; and the buildings when erected will serve the convenience of the people of Southern California generally. Voting $1,000,000 to enable Los Angeles to stage a great athletic carnival for a single week is a very different proposition. It strikes the writer as an exceedingly glib proposal.

Los Angeles may succeed in getting votes in the legislature to have this bond issue submitted; but the press predicts that it will have hard sledding when it comes up to the people in 1928.

If Los Angeles wants the Olympic games, let the people of that city meet the expense; the rest of the state may well say "We should worry."

Essays and Accidents

Oakland Tribune

A prevalent impression that grade crossing accidents are decreasing is in error. While it is true the number of such crossings has been lessened and the safeguards increased, the larger use of the highways for automobile traffic has been responsible for a higher accident toll. The grade crossing problem persists and becomes more acute.

In 1926 there were 5921 highway grade crossing accidents in which 2482 persons were killed and 6991 injured while in 1925, the number of accidents was 5479, deaths, 2296, and injuries 6565. Only through the co-operation of the public and the railroads can a reduction in such accidents be brought about.

The American Railway association, interested directly of course in the lessening of these accidents, proposes the familiar essay scheme as one remedy. It has offered prizes to grammar and high school students who write the best essays on the subject of "Cross Crossing Cautiously."

It is easy to say that tackling so large a problem with schoolboy essays is like trying to sweep back the tide with a broom, but there is merit in any idea which will direct thought in the ways of caution. As it is manifestly impossible to remove all the crossings at once—and the bulk of the prohibitive cost would ultimately fall on the public—there must be a continuation of the campaign against the carelessness exhibited by the general public. Until people cease to drive automobiles in front of trains, and until all crossings are guarded, it is probable we will continue to fight accidents with essays and anything else that even faintly promises to be effective.

Menace of Traffic Held

Pasadena Star-News

"Substantial progress" is being made, in the United States, toward the solution of the problem of street and highway traffic. Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, praises the co-operation shown by the people in working out this solution. Progress has been attained in the adoption, by the states, of a uniform motor vehicle code.

Accidents in traffic still run high—about 20,000 fatalities annually, and 500,000 accidents. But there is no increase in the number of deaths or of accidents, notwithstanding the increase in the number of automobiles in use and the mileage increase. Considered in this way, substantial reduction has been attained. Mr. Hoover adds that it is his belief that "if we continue to hold the direction of this problem in the hands of the motor world we shall eventually secure its solution." Another thought advanced by Mr. Hoover is that government "must and will prove ineffective unless we can secure mobilized co-operative action among her own people in the solution of our own problems."

This, because of the growing complexity of an enormously increasing population and the correspondingly increasing perplexity of the problems of traffic.

The responsibility comes back, in large measure, to the individual citizen.

WELL-FITTING SHOES VITAL IN FOOT CARE
The ordinary human foot at birth is capable of carrying on at least until middle life, and possibly until advanced age without much disturbance if it is given a fair chance.

Such a chance includes the use of proper fitting shoes from birth onward, sufficient amounts of suitable exercise to develop the muscles and ligaments so that they may hold the bones of the foot in proper position, the avoidance of infections which seem to have a special affinity for secondary location in the feet, and proper attention to bathing and pedicuring.

The best type of shoe is one with a shank sufficiently rigid to give some support when support is needed; it should have a round toe, be of medium width, and made over a last with a straight inner border. The height of the heel should be sufficient to be comfortable for the person concerned.

Extremes are undesirable because they throw extra strains on the muscles of the legs and of the back. Rubber heels lend comfort in minimizing shock and their popularity makes little justification necessary.

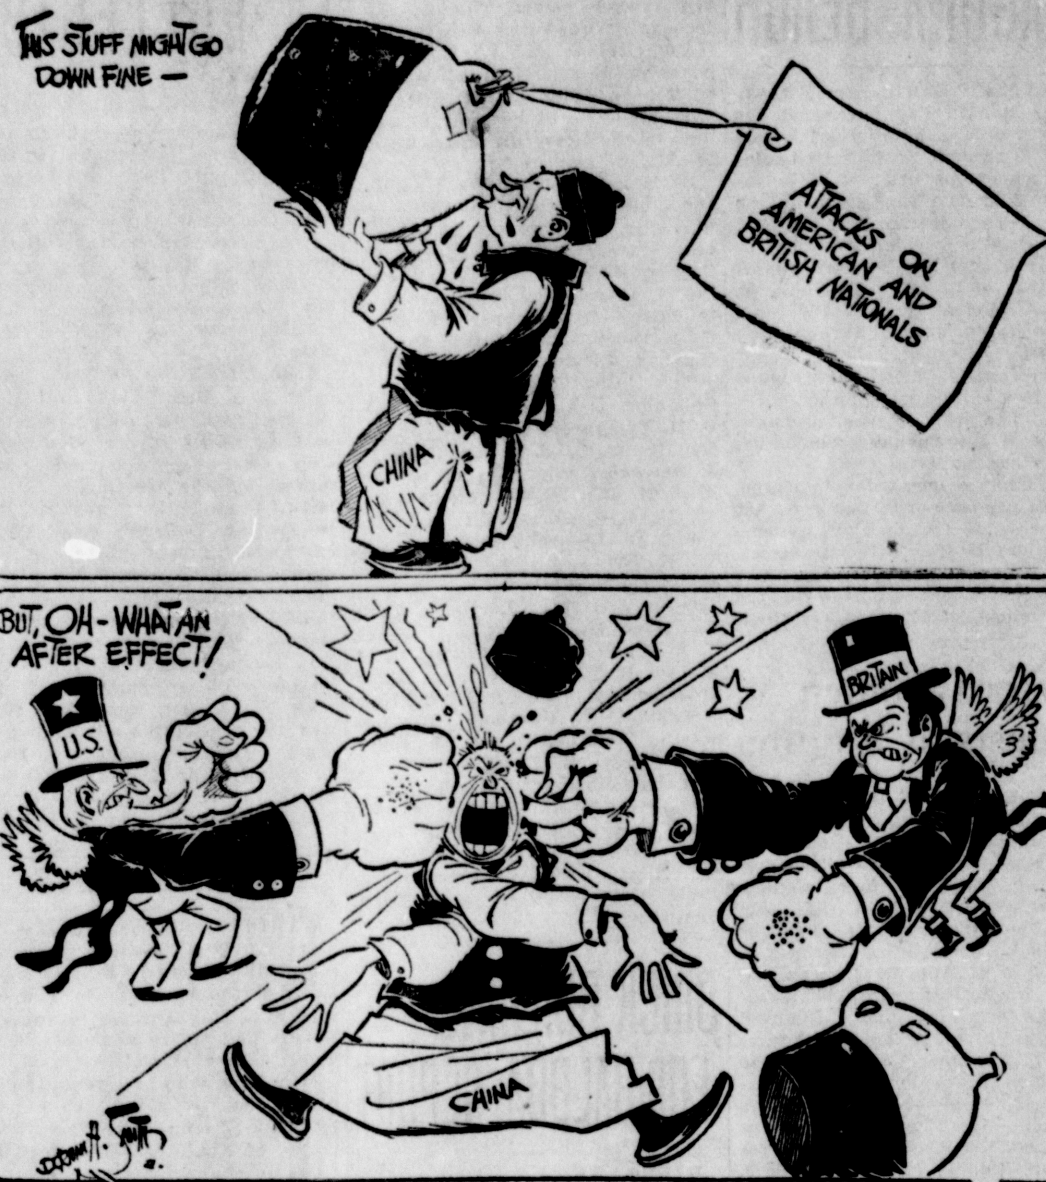

The stocking should fit well because if too short the contraction has a tendency to cause ingrown toe nails, hammer-toes and bunions. If the stockings are too long they form wrinkles and cause uneven pressure and irritation of the skin.

Stockings should be changed daily, but seldom are. Probably they are changed in proportion to the bathing habits of the person concerned. Everyone ought to bathe daily and many do.

Alternating hot and cold water baths are stimulating to the circulation in the feet and of benefit. Among the exercises especially valuable for the feet are those which throw the weight occasionally on the outer or inner edges. If the transverse arch is weakened, picking up objects with the bare toes is helpful.

Don't Let Death Take the Wheel

Comes now the jolly old spring, honk, honk. Robins, ball players and the optimism of weathermen are no such true harbingers of the vernal season as statistics of automobile fatalities.

Seventeen of every 100,000 persons were killed in motor accidents in 1926; three times that number were injured. That was the highest mark ever reached, but 1927 promises to beat it by a thousand deaths.

During the season when sap and gasoline are flowing, there's little profit from words of caution. But here's a rule or two you may keep in mind if your car hasn't had its spring overhauling:

Always take it for granted that the other driver is a fool. You can't get hit if you're out of the way.

Don't get the idea that your car is the fastest thing on the road. Death is very swift.

Don't think the speed cop can't catch you. That's the way he makes his living.

If you're late for an appointment, don't speed. You may never get there.

If s-p-r-i-n-g spells speed to you, leave your car in the garage and go for a walk. Jail is unpleasant when the sun is shining.

Remember that gasoline mixes with love no better than it does with liquor.

Bad brakes bring bad breaks.

Let the other fellow be the reckless driver. You be the wreck-less one.

Don't get mad while you're driving a car. It may cost you your life.

Worth While Verse

A LAD THAT IS GONE

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone;
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye.

Give me again all that was there,
Give me the sun that shone!
Give me the eyes, give me the soul,
Give me the lad that's gone!

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone;
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye.

Billow and breeze, islands and seas,
Mountains of rain and sun,
All that was good, all that was fair,
All that was me is gone.

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Time To Smile

A DUCAL DIG

Suzanne Lenglen said at a dinner in New York:
"When I began to play golf my friends all poked fun at me. One day I was playing at Mont Arel, the golf course high up in the mountains back of Monte Carlo. I was in very bad form that day, and the way I hacked holes in the green velvet turf was a caution. The Duke of Westminster passed as I was hacking away.

"Ah, mademoiselle," he said, "when you get through it won't be a matter of replacing the turf—it will be a matter of returfing the place."—Detroit Free Press.

Little Benny's Note Book

Sunday after dinner pop started to read the Sunday paper, saying, Yee gods, nothing to smoke, how can I read the Sunday paper without cigar, I wouldn't be able to understand a word, Benny, run around to the drug store and run back with a half a dozen Queen Billie cigars.

And he gave me the money and in about a hour I came back with the cigars, pop saying, Well for Peet sake why didn't you wait for next week to bring them, the weather mite of bin nicer.

Well G winnicksers, pop, it was mostly politeness that made me late, I sed.

Yee gods, politeness? pop sed, and I sed, Yes sir, there was some lady in the drug store wen I went in, so of course I had to wait till she got waited on, and then another lady came in and sed, Would you mind waiting on me, Im in a hurry, and I didnt say anything so the man waited on her and jest then another lady came in and sed, I haff to catch a train, could you wait on me rite away? and I didnt say anything about the cigars and the man sed, Certenly, and he waited on her and G roozlem he wunted about 10 different things, and jest wen I was going to ask for the cigars another lady came in and sed, Id jest like to have a couple of stamps in a hurry, please, and I kepp on not saying anything out of politeness, and after she got the stamps holey smokes she thawt of about 6 other things she happened to think of, and then the man asked me wat I wunted on account of me being the only one in there except him, so I told him.

Yee gods, its a wimmins world, I suppose Ill have to kouse you under the circumstances, pop sed. Me thinking, G herryay. On account of it he had asked any more questions I mite of had to tell him about stopping about 20 minnits to watch Persey Weever falling off his new bysickel trying to lern to ride it.

Brother Lewis has cut a pretty wide swathe here in California. He has gotten the money in divers and sundry ways. Remember when he had a lot of mighty fine people here in Santa Ana believing that he was going to present the community with a fine, comblodious, modern and up-to-the-minute woman's club house as a free gift?

Yes, sir, free, no cost or expense to anyone concerned, all we were required to do was just reach out and accept it.

This community has a very fine club house, one in every way a credit, but, some way or another, this writer has always felt that the one which was going to come as a free gift from Mr. Lewis would have been even finer.

But, in the matter of club houses, it is just like trout fishing—the biggest one gets away.

ON THE SIDE LINES

Which May or May Not Be in Accord With the Views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

THE EDITOR FIXED IT—There never was and probably never will be a newspaper printed without typographical errors, and while they are sometimes quite annoying, they simply have to be taken for granted.

Along this line, there is a story of a clergyman who once wrote an article for a religious journal and was amazed to find "Pope Gregory" transformed into "Tom Gregory" in the proof. He made the correction and asked to see a revise. Imagine his disgust when he saw the phrase had become "Pope Tom Gregory." This time the corrected proof was accompanied by a sharp note of reproof. Evidently the editor himself took the matter in hand, for when the article finally appeared in the magazine the phrase read, "Tom Gregory, the Pope."

HOW MANY AND WHERE?

Again some good men and women are busily employed in going about the country telling that Communistic doctrines and Bolshevism are being promulgated in the public schools of California, with the teachers either totally indifferent to what is going on, or, worse still, in sympathy with the doctrines sought to be inculcated. Now, as a matter of fact, folks, all this talk of the alleged spread of Communism and Bolshevism in, and by means of, the public schools of California is very largely the bunk. The most of us personally know some of the teachers employed in our public schools; some of us know many of them. How many of them are the kind of men and women who would, for one moment, permit such work to go on in the schools under their control?

Do you who are now reading this know of many such teachers?

Do you indeed know of one?

SAME OLD STORY—

Those who feel disposed to complain that the domestic help nowadays obtainable does not compare, in the matter of efficiency, with that of the good old times may, perhaps, find some consolation in reading what was written by an Englishman concerning this subject in 1756, which is quite some time ago. He wrote:

"The present generation of servants in this country are the proudest, and the laziest, the most profligate, insolent and extravagant set of mortals anywhere to be found on the face of the globe."

JUST LIKE TROUT FISHING—

If and when, in the course of human events, any of our good Santa Ana citizens should feel impelled to mail money in any of its various forms to E. G. Lewis or his associates, the Atascadero Defense and Reconstruction fund, they may do so without fear of financial loss.

Owing to a ruling recently made by Uncle Sam, who, as a rule, knows pretty nearly what he is doing, all mail addressed to Mr. Lewis, or the associates above referred to, is promptly stamped, "fraudulent," and returned to the sender.

Under date of March 25th, Judge Cutler, of Chelsea, Mass., ruled that a man is justified in using "reasonable force" in preventing his wife from removing money from his pockets. The ruling was made by the learned judge when dismissing an assault and battery charge brought by a woman whose husband forcibly objected to his wife providing herself with funds in the good old fashioned way.

Right in line with the decision of the Chelsea judge is that of a Kansas City jurist, who fined Mrs. Florence Koonz, of Kansas City, for taking money from the pockets of her own husband. In the light of such events it may well be asked: "Wither are we drifting?"

WANTON DESTRUCTION—It is a fact, as indisputable as a deplorable, that there are very many people whose idea of showing appreciation of the wild flowers is to uproot and destroy them as quickly as possible. It is possible that a warning recently sent out by the Automobile Club of Southern California may have a good effect as tending to put an end to the wanton destruction of the wild flowers.

The automobile club takes occasion to point out the localities where wild flowers may be seen in greatest abundance and variety, and then asks that people allow the flowers to remain in the fields unmolested so that the colorful effect is not diminished, and the seeds will be allowed to form and spread their joy as the years roll around.

A CASE IN POINT—As showing the result of destroying the wild flowers, the case of the Altadena wild poppy fields may be cited.

Altadena, a suburb of Pasadena, up until a few years ago was known for its wild poppy fields, which were really beautiful in flowering season, and gave delight to thousands.

But the tourist, presumably aided and abetted by many of the home folks, got busy with those wild poppies and now any one who labor out toward Altadena to see the wild poppies will have his heart for his pains, for there are none.

A KIND FATHER—A Los Angeles man being haled before the court on the charge of illegal possession of liquor, said he had some wine to give to a sick baby.

"Sounds reasonable," said the judge. "How much did you have?"

"Eighty gallons," was the reply.

This quantity was deemed by the judge to be more than a Los Angeles baby, even though in ill health, really needed. The thoughtful father was therefore fined $300.

A BETTER MEDICINE—Which recalls the story of two old German farmers who were chatting about crops and stock and winter food supplies.

"And did you mek moosh kraut?" asked Adolf.

"Not moosh," replied Angus, "cabbages too expensive. We chust mek two tree parrels for sickness."

Baby Tricks

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

WE do a child a positive injustice when we permit the baby his small sins under the mask of being "cute" and then severely reprimand him for doing the same thing when he's older and we have gotten over the idea that it is funny or amusing. We permit him his little tantrums because he is so funny, his impudences because he is so saucily cunning, and his questionable manners because he is so little, and then comes the day when he finds he is punished for doing just what he has always done. He is bewildered and resentful, and rightfully, too, for it is no fault of his he wasn't corrected at first instead of encouraged in his small sins.

I WISH THAT I knew

What to do to grow up.
I eat food with a fork,
And I drink from a cup.
But the things that I do,
Now I've gotten so tall,
Don't seem to be funny
Or cunning at all!

So I wish I'd grow up,
Or just knew how to start,
So that no one would say,
"Now don't try to act smart."
For it seems when one's six,
Things he did when just four
That were cunning and dear
Aren't cute any more!
